Soviet Sets U.N. Battle Line

Khrushchev Visits Fidel

Talk Lasts 40 Minutes

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev made a dramatic foray into the heart of Harlem Tuesday, to pay his respects to Cuba's bearded Prime Minister Fidel Castro. It was the first known meeting between the two.

It held a potential of high significance, this conference between the leader of world communism and the revolutionary hero of Cuba, who is regarded as increasingly edging into Moscow's sphere.

Khrushchev was said to have asked for the meeting. It lasted for 40 minutes at the Hotel Theresa, where Castro moved Monday night after a public tantrum over midtown hotel accommodations.

Interpreters worked back and forth between the stocky Russian and the muscular Cuban, who towered over his guest. The Soviet premier essayed a couple of nonpolitical quips that set Castro to laughing.

5,000 Shout Approval

An estimated 5,000 persons screamed and shouted approval as the pair emerged from the hotel onto the sidewalks of blocked-off Seventh Avenue.

"I was very much pleased with the conversation I had with Dr. Castro," Khrushchev said after his return to the Soviet's United Nations headquarters on Park Avenue.

Meanwhile, more foreign diplomats and chiefs of state—Communist and otherwise —poured into Manhattan, drawn here by a fateful session of the United Nations, which got under way Tuesday afternoon.

Late arrivals included President Tito of Yugoslavia. He smiled broadly and waved his hands to about 100 sympathizers as he disembarked from the liner Queen Elizabeth. Longshoremen on the pier, however, booed him lustily.

Also aboard the Queen Elizabeth was Gen. Mehmet Shehu, premier of Albania and a bitter foe of Tito.

Some 500 New York City policemen guarded the pier for the arrival of Tito and Shehu—a force second only to that monitoring Khrushchev's arrival at an East River pier aboard the Soviet liner Baltika Monday.

Security Big Problem

Security continued to be a gravely vexing problem.

Khrushchev told the State Department he resented police handling of his party in his Harlem visit to Castro. Police Inspector James J. Weldon said much of the confusion was caused by the surprise nature of Khrushchev's visit and added:

"There was plenty of shoving. I don't know of any specific incident. There was nothing willful."

Mayor Robert F. Wagner defended his police force against Khrushchev's complaints. He said the policemen were responding "to the emergency caused by the presence here of so many foreign officials who have to be guarded because of the enemies they have made."

Some 8,000 New York police are deployed throughout Manhattan to insure the safety of the visitors, many of them bitterly hated by foreign-born segments of the city's population. Near rioting broke out Monday night outside Khrushchev's residence on Park Avenue at 68th Street and again Tuesday outside U.N. headquarters.

Guarding Reds Costly To New York City

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The city estimated Tuesday that it will spend an additional $1.5 million a week providing police protection for the Communist delegates to the United Nations.

This led the City Council to approve unanimously a resolution asking the federal government to reimburse the city for the extra expense.

Demonstrators Clash Outside United Nations

NEW YORK (AP)—Rioting on the streets outside marked the opening Tuesday of the United Nations General Assembly. There were unconfirmed reports of injuries as police afoot and on horseback charged excitable demonstrators.

It took three hours to restore an uneasy peace. The U.N. Plaza on 47th St., between First and Second Avenues was closed to further demonstrations.

Several arrests were made as police followed orders to drive the demonstrators back and break up their massed ranks of hundreds into groups of no more than 25 persons.

A group of 100 men and women protesting Communist domination of Albania was attacked by 15 or 20 men swinging fists and umbrellas.

In a separate melee, a group of 25 to 50 persons favoring Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro attacked anti-Castro demonstrators in the U.N. Plaza.

Demonstrators, protesting the presence of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the United Nations, joined in the fight. Fifty foot patrolman and two dozen mounted policemen restored order and cleared the entire plaza area.

In yet another incident, a man in an adjoining Ukranian picket line, protesting Communist rule in eastern Europe, pulled a small Russian flag from his pocket and threw it to the ground. He took some matches from his pocket.

"What are you going to do?" a policeman asked.

"I'm going to burn this flag," he said.

"You're not going to burn anything," the policeman said.

The man fought as police removed him from the picket line.

In the separate Albanian melee, several persons were knocked to the ground.

The anti-Communist group was carrying placards protesting the rule of Mehmet Shehu, Albanian premier. Some signs protested what they called "extermination of the Greek population of northern Epirus."

Castro Burns Her Up, Causes Fire

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Fidel Castro almost caused a rural home near here to burn Tuesday.

Mrs. Ersie Allen said she became so enraged watching Americans on television greeting Castro in a friendly manner that she forgot she had put bacon on the stove.

The bacon burned, ignited the grease which blazed up and set fire to a kitchen cabinet.

Mrs. Allen smothered the fire with wet towels.

Said she: "I wish he'd stayed in Cuba where he belongs."

Kennedy Declares World Leadership Requires Sacrifices

Demo Candidate Hits GOP Apathy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy told the nation Tuesday night it must expect sacrifices to preserve U.S. world leadership against the efforts of Communist enemies seeking to undermine the peace.

"There is very little time," the Democratic presidential nominee said. "The enemy is lean and hungry—and we are the only sentinel at the gate."

In his first nationwide television speech of the campaign, with his immediate audience the diners at a $100-a-plate Democratic dinner, Kennedy said the nation needs to mobilize under new leadership.

The Massachusetts senator addressed some of his remarks to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, now in New York heading the Soviet delegation to the United Nations General Assembly.

"How can you talk of peace, Mr. Khrushchev," he asked, "when you and your Chinese Communist friends are undermining the peace of the world every day—creating danger and disorder wherever you can?

"And how can you talk of the achievements of your system, even if you beat us again by putting a man in space—for the world knows that you may some day bring a man back alive from orbit, but you rarely bring one back alive from Siberia."

Stressing anew the dominant theme of his campaign—that Republican apathy and neglect are costing this country its leadership and world prestige, Kennedy told Americans watching on 180 TV stations:

"In times such as these, I say it is wrong—and dangerous—for any American to keep silent about our future if he is not satisfied with what is being done to preserve that future.

"And I am not satisfied when our President can be insulted by a dictator in Paris or by a mob in Tokyo.

"I am not satisfied when our vice president can be stoned in Latin America.

"I am not satisifed to be second to outer space, or second to the moon.

"I have heard all the excuses—but I believe, not in an America that is first but, or first if, or first when—but an America that is first, period."

Kennedy said the time has come for this country to let Khrushchev know that "a new generation is taking over in America—a generation that did not fight for world freedom at Anzio and the Solomon Islands to see it drift away."

Only once did Kennedy refer directly to his rival for the White House, Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"My opponent said that he is a 'chance taker' abroad but a 'conservative' at home," Kennedy said.

"I am neither. For if you lack compassion for your own people and your own problems—then those static policies are reflected around the world."

The United States will continue to lose ground relatively to the Communists, Kennedy suggested, "unless we have a president in the '60s who acts first and acts fast."

Castro Target Of Bomb Threat

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fidel Castro's new Harlem hotel was the subject of a telephoned bomb threat Tuesday night. Bomb squad detectives searched the premises and found nothing.

The threat was telephoned to the West 123rd Street police station while the bearded Cuban leader was at the United Nations building six miles downtown enjoying the limelight in bearhugs with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

"They're going to bomb the (hotel) Theresa. There's a bomb on the fifth floor," an unidentified woman caller told police. Castro's suite is on the ninth floor.

It was the third time bomb squad detectives had searched the Theresa since Castro and his 80 aides moved in Monday night after walking out of a midtown hotel in a money dispute with the management. Police said the squad searched the hotel before Castro moved in shortly after midnight and made another routine check during the day before the threat was received.

Jimmy Harrington, the hotel's switchboard operator, said the hotel had been plagued with various threats of one kind or another since Castro moved in. He said the management didn't bother reporting most of them to police.

Castro and his entourage settled into the hotel, paying twice as much as they had in midtown but apparently twice as happy.

Women With Children In USSR Appeal To 'K'

NEW YORK (AP)—Two tearful women, one of them clad in black, got through police lines to pour out their hearts to Soviet Premier Khrushchev as he left his Park Avenue residence Tuesday.

A throng of spectators, police and newsmen surged forward but couldn't understand the women, speaking in Russian and Ukrainian.

Khrushchev listened solemnly. He, too, spoke a few words.

Suddenly the woman in black threw her arms around the premier and kissed him on the cheek.

Khrushchev responded by giving each woman a similar kiss and left.

The woman in black, sobbing and shaking in deep emotion, told reporters she was Maria Pietryk, 48, of Brooklyn.

She said she had lived in a small town in the Ukraine, Mali Zolishchiki, which was overrun by Germans early in World War II. She and her husband, taken to Germany, left her baby daughter with a grandmother. They all lost track of each other.

Eleven years ago, Mrs. Pietryk and her husband emigrated to the United States with another daughter, then 3.

Two years ago they learned that their older daughter was in Zhurnov, in the province of Stalingrad.

Mrs. Pietryk said she pleaded with Khrushchev to let the daughter, Anna, now 23, join the family here.

Amid tears and sobs, she said the premier promised to help.

The second woman was identified as Antonia Czeremeta, New York, who pleaded that her two children be allowed to visit her from the Ukraine. They are Helen, 30, and Andriz, 28. Mrs. Czeremeta is an American citizen.

Anti-American Campaign Hits Peak In Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—Every anti-U.S. word Fidel Castro utters in New York is being magnified in Havana into the bitterest anti-American campaign in Cuban history.

Maj. Raul Castro, acting prime minister in his brother's absence, led off the campaign early Tuesday.

He declared Fidel and the Cuban delegation were being abused in New York and that this could lead to the expulsion of the United States from the Guantanamo naval base in eastern Cuba.

Raul shouted to a hastily called early morning mass rally of 50,000 persons in the square of the presidential palace: "It's within our possibilities in a determined moment to reclaim that piece of our national territory."

It was the most direct threat against the U. S. base since Castro took power.

Castro's propaganda machine—newspapers and radio—told and retold how Castro left one New York hotel for "refuge" in the Negro section of Harlem. They cited pressure and alleged mistreatment at a mid-Manhattan hotel and blamed the State Department.

They told too Castro's story of overcharges by the operator of the first hotel, but didn't mention that Castro was paying a still higher price for rooms in Harlem.

The semiofficial newspaper Revolucion ran a banner headline that proclaimed: "We will nationalize them down to even their Yankee spies."

It warned that abuse of Castro wosld bring counteraction to Americans in Cuba.

Rescuers Struggle To Save 67 Miners

TOKYO, Wednesday (UPI) — Rescue workers manned pumps Tuesday in one last desperate attempt to save 67 miners trapped in a flooded coal mine.

More than 500 men pumped water and piled sandbags to try to clear a channel to the deep shafts of the Euda mine, flooded when a shaft head gave way and let the waters of the Cugenji River pour in Monday.

Officials believed minor gas explosions weakened the head of a shaft causing a cave-in.

Gen. Salan Recalled

ALGIERS (AP) — Gen. Raoul Salan, recalled to Paris to explain recent public criticism of President Charles de Gaulle's Algerian policy, sailed for Marseille Tuesday with a roundtrip ticket in his pocket.

Formerly commander in chief in Algeria, Salan came here recently to settle in retirement. De Gaulle wants the Algerians to choose their own future political institutions.

"Strongman" Names Congo Ruling Group

Mobutu Bypasses Rival Claimants To Premiership

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Col. Joseph Mobutu set up a Congolese technical commission Tuesday to supersede both the ousted regime of Communist-supported Premier Patrice Lumumba and the shadow government of Premier-designate Joseph Ileo.

Mobutu, pushing efforts to "neutralize" both Lumumba and President Joseph Kasavubu, said the commission will operate the government until Jan. 1. Its head is Justin Bomboko, currently serving as Kasavubu's chief delegate at the United Nations in New York. He was Lumumba's foreign minister, but later supported Kasavubu.

Foreign Newsmen Curbed

The commission issued a proclamation threatening expulsion of any foreign newsman sending out "the contradictory communiques of the rival parties."

It accused Lumumba of treason and described Col. Mobuts as "the man who has delivered us from Communist colonialism and from Marxist-Leninist imperialism in the true higher interests of the country."

The commission said it "is alone authorized to conduct the general policy of the country, to assure respect for legality and to represent the Congo Republic abroad."

Mobutu's soldiers underlined the assertion by evicting Lumumba appointees still entrenched in administrative offices. Mobutu said commission specialists will run the various ministries.

Lumumba Rejects Offer

Congo ministries have been inoperative since Kasavubu two weeks ago fired Lumumba as premier and named Ileo to replace him. Lumumba ignored the president's action and as a result, both his regime and Ileo's administration have remained nominally in control. Only technical work has been going on under the direction of U. N. experts.

An Ileo spokesman said Ileo did not take over control of the government because he hoped to reach a settlement with the Lumumba faction and appoint the deposed premier to a subordinate ministerial post.

Lumumba scornfully rejected the offer and insisted at a news conference he still is legal premier.

Conduct Of Red General Brings Formal Complaint

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—New York Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy filed a formal complaint with the U.S. State Department Tuesday accusing Russian Gen. Nicolai Zaharov of "outrageous conduct" during an incident at the Harlem hotel headquarters of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Kennedy told State Department officials the incident involved a police captain under his command and Zaharov, who is the chief of a special Russian mission sent to New York to check on security arrangements for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The American spokesman gave this account of the incident as reported by Kennedy: Zaharov became rough. A police captain protested, and finally put his arms around Zaharov to restrain him, and the Russian general was forcibly held by the police captain until Zaharov quieted down.

Nixon Urges Unity Behind Eisenhower

EN ROUTE WITH NIXON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon on Tuesday urged all America to put partisanship aside and stand united behind President Eisenhower while regimented Communists march lockstep through the United Nations.

The Republican presidential nominee went even further and proposed a political moratorium on talk of American weakness or division that would all but gag his Democratic rival, Sen. John F. Kennedy, on what Kennedy calls the central issue of the campaign.

And Nixon promised flatly to continue some sort of spying on Russia if he reaches the White House.

That was while the vice president was driving to keep Pennsylvania, with its crucial 32 electoral votes, and Michigan, with 20, in the Republican camp in the November election.

Nixon talked of espionage methods and criticized Kennedy at a news conference in Scranton, Pa. Then he hopped off for a day of electioneering by plane and motorcade at Mount Clemens, Flint, Saginaw and Bay City, Mich.

Answering questions of newsmen, Nixon said the U2 spy plane flight over Russia was technically wrong according to standards of international conduct but legally and morally right and completely necessary in the light of the Soviet menace. He said he would not resume such flights as their usefulness has been compromised but added, "I want to make it very clear if I become president I will continue to try to get intelligence information in order to protect the United States."

Nixon flew into Michigan urging unbroken unity behind the President.

He sprung the proposal in remarks prepared for delivery at political rallies at Mount Clemens and Flint.

A great struggle, Nixon said, was never won by a lack of belief in one's own strength and unity of purpose or by a defeatist attitude. He said, "We know the regimented Communists will march lockstep through the United Nations, hanging desperately together to avoid hanging one another separately. There will be on their part no deviation."

USW Hits Rising Medical Costs, Plans Own Clinics

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — The million-member United Steelworkers Union revealed plans Tuesday to establish a series of hospitals and clinics in steel towns to combat rising medical costs and seek better quality health care.

A study submitted to the union's convention said employer-paid health insurance programs are ineffective in preventing doctors from making extra charges for medical services and in preventing unnecessary surgery and hospitalization.

Steelworkers President David J. McDonald said the union already is negotiating with steel companies on methods to obtain better dollar value for the $135 million a year the steel firms presently pay for medical-hospital insurance benefits.

McDonald said he hopes to persuade the industry to invest some of its more than $1.5 billion pension reserves in group practice medical care centers, hospitals and other medical care facilities.

He said as a first step the industry and union have jointly asked the American Medical Association and the American Hospital Association for conferences in early October to see what can be done about curbing medical-hospital costs.

Unless this is done, McDonald said, the union will be compelled to embark on its own medical care program, perhaps along lines like that adopted by the United Mine Workers Union. He said maximum insurance benefits are seldom sufficient to pay doctor bills.

Reds Handed New Setback In Assembly

Ireland's Boland, Opposed By Russia, Elected President

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union suffered a new setback in the United Nations Tuesday, but immediately laid down the battle line it will pursue in a momentous 15th session of the General Assembly.

With the most spectacular diplomatic gathering of its history on hand, the assembly defeated the Soviet candidate for president for this session.

But Nikita Khrushchev's forces indicated clearly they were ready to do battle for the good will of the uncommitted, emerging world of former colonial peoples. The opening Soviet statement made this clear, and a United States statement indicated that the challenge would be accepted.

The session's opening, keyed to a warning from the new president, Frederick H. Boland of Ireland, that the assembly faced a severe test of its ability to preserve civilization, capped a remarkable day in the history of diplomacy.

Khrushchev added his own unique touch by taking off suddenly, a few hours before the assembly opening, on a jaunt to Harlem, New York's Negro district, for a 40-minute conference with the bearded Cuban revolutionary leader, esconced there in a hotel.

Gromyko Speaks

An atmosphere of tension pervaded the hall as the delegates began voting for their new president. As Khrushchev and a train of Communist satellite chiefs looked on, Boland was elected over the Soviet candidate, Jiri Nosek of Czechoslovakia. The vote was Boland, 46; Nosek 25, and Thor Thors of Iceland, nine.

Khrushchev passed up an opportunity to beat President Eisenhower to the assembly rostrum. As chief delegate, he could have made an opening statement, but he turned that chore over to Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Eisenhower speaks Thursday, and Khrushchev's main policy speech is scheduled Friday.

Gromyko keynoted the Soviet attack. He welcomed the admission of 14 new nations—13 from Africa, the other the republic of Cyprus—to U.N. membership. But by implication he condemned the West for allegedly continuing economic domination of former colonial areas. He demanded that such areas attain "real independence."

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, speaking a few minutes later, also hailed the new members. He also welcomed, as a severe test, successfully passed, the U.N. action aimed at restoring order in Africa's turbulent Congo. Overwhelming assembly support for that action in a special session ended just after midnight Tuesday morning constituted a jolting setback for Soviet diplomacy in Africa.

14 New Nations Adimtted

The assembly quickly increased U.N. membership from 82 to 96 by unanimously voting in 13 new African states and the new Republic of Cyprus

Immediately after the vote for president, Boland was called to the president's chair, to the applause of the delegates. Khrushchev conspicuously abstained from the applause. Cuba's pro-Khrushchev prime minister, Fidel Castro, clapped a few times apathetically.

The challenge before the U.N., said Boland, is to demonstrate through collective effort mankind "is gaining control of its own destiny" rather than permitting "blind force to decide the fate of the world." The U.N. progress to date has raised mankind's hopes, he said.

"Because of recent events, these high hopes are now to be severely tested," Boland continued. "Every delegation here present, no matter what its frame of reference, can help the assembly to meet that trial."

But despite the solemnity of the

Welch Hospitalized With Heart Ailment

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP)—Joseph N. Welch, noted personality of the Army-McCarthy hearings, and more recently a movie actor and television figure, is hospitalized with a heart condition.

The widely known lawyer suffered the condition about 10 days ago but is "getting along nicely" a family spokesman said Tuesday.

Welch, who will be 70 Oct. 22, has been living quietly here at the Cape for the last few years although appearing on television, introducing mystery programs and giving lectures on the U.S. Constitution.

Gov. Tawes Hopes To Complete His Administration Without Tax Hikes

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes said Tuesday he hopes to complete his administration without a major tax increase.

The governor warned, however, "we may have to cut some corners" in fiscal 1963 in order to do it.

Tawes said it will be necessary to dip into a $12 million reserve fund — "possibly use as much as 50 per cent of it" — in order to bring next year's budget into balance, but it will require no new taxes.

"We're going to have to be very careful in our spending programs to finance (fiscal) 1963 without new taxes," Tawes added. "That's when we're going to have to cut corners."

He said he thinks this can be done through prudent planning and without any sacrifice of State services. If there should be a severe recession, however, it will be another matter.

In other items touched on at a weekly press conference, the governor:

1. Endorsed Tidewater Fisheries Commission proposals to increase oyster production and warned tidewater legislators that unless they support rehabilitation efforts "I'm not going to support this (State shell planting) program as in the past."

Tawes said he could not see the State spending huge sums of money to help an industry unless the TFC is given legislative authority to do a proper job. The commission's major proposals for authority to open and close oyster bars, set aside oyster cultivation areas and form cooperatives of watermen have been reported in trouble in a Legislative Council committee studying seafood legislation.

2. Virtually ruled out any special session of the Legislature to enact a metropolitan sales tax for Baltimore City and Baltimore and Anne Arundel counties. Tawes said State collection of the tax is impractical and costly and would appear just as feasible for the city and county to handle.

3. Reaffirmed his endorsement of the Potomac River Compact with Virginia and predicted it would be ratified by voters this fall without any stumping of the state by him.

"The major opposition is localized in Charles and St. Marys counties," the governor said. "We have asked some of our friends in the various counties to work for approval."

On the question of revenues, the governor was reminded that major tax increases were enacted during the administrations of both his predecessors — Govs. William Preston Lane and Theodore R. McKeldin. Tawes was asked if he thought his spending policies had been "more prudent."

"I would not say we've been more prudent," Tawes replied, "but our budgets have been based on need rather than the amount of money that might be available to balance them."

He said there had been some squawks from department heads at his first budget but some of these departments were able to turn back money at the end of the year.

"If the economy begins to drag and collections do not equal estimates we may be in trouble (yet)," Tawes said. "I would not cut services to the extent any program will suffer (in order to avoid a tax increase)."

He said he would not rule out the possibility of another school teacher pay raise or other spending hike this year but "we're going to be very careful about our spending requests at the coming session (of the legislature)."

The governor said before making any comment on new spending proposals he would first want to see the study report of the Legislative Council's Fiscal Committee headed by Sen. William S. James, which has not yet submitted its recommendations.

occasion, the hint of circus atmosphere also hung on. Vast security precautions to protect visitors like Khrushchev, Castro, Prseident Tito of Yugoslavia, and various Communist leaders lent an air of unreality to the peaceful facade of the U.N. building on New York's East River.

Fourteen minutes before the curtain was raised on the world drama in the great hall, Khrushchev strode purposefully into the building, his foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko, at his side.

Council Group Would Tighten Idle Pay Law

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Legislative Council committee Tuesday recommended a tightening of Maryland's unemployment insurance laws, including disqualification of claimants who voluntarily quit their jobs and elimination of pregnancy benefits.

The legislative committee also tentatively agreed to increase the maximum weekly benefits from $35 to $38 and to retain the present uniform duration formula, whereby all workers are eligible for 26 weeks of benefits regardless of time spent on the job.

But the committee, under the chairmanship of Sen. Fred C. Malkus, D-Dorchester, announced it would make a further study of several variable duration formulas.

Under such a plan, which was in effect before the State law was amended in 1957, the jobless would receive benefits in direct relation to the amount of time worked before becoming unemployed.

Apparently if the committee later agrees on a variable duration formula, it may change its mind about the amount of weekly benefits.

Whatever the committee finally agrees upon will be presented to the General Assembly in January.

The lawmakers held a series of hearings in Baltimore, Frederick and Salisbury to consider changes in the law. Employer spokesmen have contended the current law is too liberal, while labor unions claimed it was not liberal enough.

Robert B. Kimble, executive director of the State Department of Employment Security, last week proposed a tightening of eligibility requirements but suggested a $50 weekly payment, with a 30-week maximum benefit period.

In most instances, the Judiciary Committee's recommendations followed suggestions made by the Baltimore Association of Commerce.

The disqualification proposal, which had been in effect before 1957, provides that benefits should be denied for the total period of unemployment to persons who voluntarily leave their jobs and refuse suitable re-employment elsewhere.

A claimant then could not receive jobless pay until he becomes re-employed, earns 10 times the weekly benefit amount, and then loses his job through no fault of his own.

The present law postponed the benefits from one to 10 weeks, but the claimant remained eligible for the entire 26 weeks of compensation.

Under the new proposals, a pregnant woman would be ineligible for benefits from the time her pregnancy was diagnosed until two months after the birth of the child. Currently payments are suspended only from two months before until two months after birth.

Other recommendations included:

1. Legislation to eliminate the possibility of certain workers collecting a "second round" of benefits without intervening employment.

2. Elimination or reduced payments to persons drawing pensions, Old Age and Survivors Insurance, or similar payments.

3. Tentative agreement to retain extra weekly allowances for dependents, but affecting only the sum received by the unemployed wage-earner who had been the principal source of income for the dependents.

Consideration of a proposal to change the law regarding payments to seasonal workers was postponed by the committee pending another meeting.

Tawes Says He Okayed Clopper For Prison Job

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes said Tuesday he approved a State Board of Correction decision to retain Robert L. Clopper as assistant superintendent of the Reformatory for Males at Hagerstown.

Clopper was a political appointee to the post during the Republican McKeldin administration. Washington County Democrats sought to have him replaced with a Democrat when the Tawes administration took office.

Tawes told a news conference he had G. C. A. Anderson, chairman of the Board of Correction, and James Curran, superintendent of prisons, investigate the matter when he received complaints from Washington County.

Anderson, in a letter to the governor, said Clopper was doing a good job and recommended he be retained. He objected to political treatment of the post.

"I told the Democratic State Central Committee chairman (of Washington County) that I would stand on the letter from Anderson," the governor said. "I appointed him chairman and respect his opinion."

Tawes was asked about the matter because it arose Monday during a Legislative Council investigation of the State prison system. Ray S. Gould, a member of the board of correction, said political pressure had been brought to bear on him in an effort to oust Clopper as assistant superintendent.

'Sleeping Beauty' Case Doctors Tell Of Tests

CLEVELAND (AP) —Medical men testified Tuesday about tests made in an effort to link Lillian Fratantonio with the drugging of her "sleeping beauty" daughters, one of whom lived in a state of virtual suspended animation for nearly a year.

Dr. Bienvenido Abesamis told a Juvenile Court jury hearing the case against the petite Mrs. Fratantonio, 29, that blood tests were made to determine the presence of barbiturates in Bernadette Fratantonio, 3, and her sister, Venita, 5.

Doctors "decided to correlate the presence of the mother with the drawing of blood (for tests) because we knew we were not giving barbiturates, yet the blood tests showed positive for barbiturates," said Dr. Abesamis, chief resident physician in the children's section of Mount Sinai hospital.

Since Bernadette was admitted to the hospital in September, 1959, Mrs. Fratantonio was a very frequent visitor, Dr. Abesamis said. During her visits hospital personnel often left her alone with the children, he said.

Authorities have alleged that Mrs. Fratantonio used a medicine dropper to feed sleep-inducing drugs to Bernadette and Venita.

Bernadette and Venita have been taken from their parents by order of Juvenile Court Judge Margaret J. Spellacy and have been placed temporarily with the Catholic Charities Bureau.

An eastern university has established a course in Icelandic. This, of course, leaves the student body cold.

You're in clover, Mr. Businessman!

"You really have it made, don't you? Little or no competition. Short hours. Long vacations. No risks. 40¢ profit on every dollar you take in! Just rake it in!

"Does this portrait of you as a businessman surprise you? You'll be even more surprised to hear that such a distorted concept of the typical businessman is by no means uncommon —even today.

"Your true portrait has to be publicized. The story of our free enterprise system, of the role business plays in its community, needs to be told—and retold. The principles of our American Economic System must be taught, and you Mr. Businessman, must do the teaching.

"Teach whom and how? Let's start with our youth, because American business has a big stake in American education. There lies the future of our economic welfare.

"How to go about it? Simple. Call your local Chamber of Commerce and find out about Business—Education days—'B-E' days, as we call them. You'll be helping to build a sounder understanding of the vital role of business—your business—in the American way of life."

MYSTERIOUS NOTE—Detective Chester Phoebus (left) and Chief of Anne Arundel County Police Wilbur C. Wade look at a pie plate which had a mysterious call for help printed on it. The plate, found near Ft. Meade, Md., by 11-year-old Frank Martin, said "call police" on one side and on the other was "this is not a joke. I'm held on the third floor of the Pick Lee House Hotel. Please don't destroy this note. Please give this to the first policeman." The signature was "Dr. J. F. Precer." (AP Photofax)

Investigators Plan Hearings At Md. Prisons

BALTIMORE (AP) — Inmates and officials of the State Reformatory for Males near Hagerstown will be called to testify Sept. 30 before a special Legislative Council committee investigating administration of Maryland's prisons.

Its public sessions ended Monday at Baltimore, as James W. Curran told committee members critics of the prison administration had levied irresponsible charges.

Curran, superintendent of prisons for the state, had been criticized at an earlier hearing. The investigations began after a series of sit-down strikes by inmates at the reformatory, the Maryland House of Correction at Jessup and the State Penitentiary at Baltimore.

Sen. Edward O. Weant Jr., D-Carroll, chairman of the special committee, said his group would meet at the penitentiary and the House of Correction to take additional testimony after the session at the reformatory.

Weant said the hearings at the prisons probably would be closed affairs.

The dumb-waiter, originally a circular table to hold reserve plates, knives and forks, came into use in England in the 18th century.

Hagerstown Minister's Son Guam Crash Victim

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — One of the victims of a chartered plane crash in Guam Sunday was the only surviving son of a Hagerstown minister.

A total of 78 persons died and 15 others were injured in the crash of the World Airways DC6B, which was on a homeward bound flight under charter to the Military Air Transport Service.

One of those aboard was George B. Harris Jr., enroute from his post as a legal administrator for the Department of the Interior in the Caroline Islands to Honolulu where he was to report for two weeks of military training.

Young Harris, a first lieutenant in the Army reserve, was the son of the Rev. G. Bartow Harris, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Hagerstown. He was informed Tuesday his son was missing and presumed dead.

The son was a 1956 law graduate of the University of Virginia. He worked with the Civil Rights Commission at Washington before joining the Interior Department, and lived with his wife at Koror on the Island of Palau on his Pacific assignment.

Young Harris was born at Calcutta, when his father was serving as a missionary in India. Another son, Samuel, also born in Calcutta, drowned in South Carolina in 1941 when he was six years old.

Body Of Ship-Boat Crash Victim Found

CHESAPEAKE CITY, Md. (AP) — The body of one of two victims of a collision between a tanker and a pleasure craft washed ashore Tuesday five miles from the scene of the crash.

Police identified the body as that of Mrs. Elizabeth Tor, 42, a Wilmington, Del., woman who was pitched into Chesapeake and Delaware Canal when the cabin cruiser in which she was riding was hit by the tanker Morania Abaco.

Her husband, Joseph Tor, 48, still is missing and dragging operations continued for his body. Mrs. Tor's body was recovered on the banks of the Elk River near Elk Neck, on the Bathon Farm.

Off-Beat Thieves Face Different Music If Caught

BALTIMORE (AP) — If a small orchestra, overloaded with brass and woodwind instruments, opens an engagement here it may be a one-night stand.

Police have expressed interest in the off-beat way six clarinets, two trumpets and a saxophone were acquired by some sour-note thieves.

The instruments, along with $200 in personal clothes, were taken from the car of Ambrose E. Paluzzi, a factory representative for a Kenosha, Wisc. musical instrument firm.

Eastern Shore Apple Crop Hit By Donna

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Hurricane Donna caused serious damage to the ripening apple crop on the Eastern Shore, but western sections of Maryland were spared by the big storm a week ago.

A weekly crop report said apple picking in the Hancock area progressed last week, with about one-fourth of the Grimes and half of the Jonathans harvested by last Saturday.

Rains slowed some field work, but most plowing and seeding for the fall had been completed before week's end.

The Eastern Shore storm damage was most severe in Worcester, Wicomico, Somerset and Caroline counties in Maryland and Kent and Sussex counties in Delaware.

New Space Spectaculars By Reds This Fall Seen

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NORTH STAR LAKE, Minn., (AP) — Be prepared for new Soviet space spectaculars from now through October, advises the head of the U.S. space program.

Putting a man into orbit, or shooting for Mars are possibilities, said Dr. T. Keith Glennan, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Premier Khrushchev's visit, the Oct. 4 anniversary of the first Sputnik in 1957, and Mars' favorable position in October offer chances.

The Echo satellite "really countered much of the propaganda" the Soviet Union reaps from space shots, Dr. Glennan said. So, he added, did U.S. success in being first to recover a capsule from space.

Dr. Glennan spoke at a weekend seminar on science and the news attended by some [illegible] prominent scientists and editors.

Scientists reported the progress of research in fields from stars to virus diseases and atoms, from the oceans to biological cloks that measure time in living things.

In informal conferences from Friday evening until Monday morning, editors and scientists living together at a lodge in wooded northern Minnesota discussed problems of telling the story of science through newspapers.

"Democracy cannot survive unless we can raise the general intelligence of the public about science," declared Dr. Warren Weaver, vice president of the Sloan Foundation, New York City.

Science is essential to all technology, the economy and defense, and scientific questions underlie critical problems which will be decided by the public.

Newspapers are most important of any communications media to explain science, and citizens can understand "if scientists take the p[illegible]nce, time and effort to speak plainly," Dr. Weaver said.

The seminar was sponsored by the University of Minnesota, the Mayo Clinic, the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, and Carleton College with support of a grant from the National Science Foundation.

Wall Street Views

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, as measured by the Dow Jones industrial average, dived to a new 1960 low Monday, and some brokers said they believed it was headed still lower.

And there were those among the Wall Streeters who felt the decline might be a blessing in disguise in that it would bring the prices of some stocks closer to realistic values.

The industrial average closed at 586.76, off 15.42 for the day. Its previous low of 599.10 was established March 8 and had been approached on three occasions.

"I don't think we have hit bottom yet," said Lester Wyetzner of Bache & Co.

"The average may go down another 20 or 30 points. That should bring the market near a support area.

William R. White of Hornblower & Weeks said that Wall Street technicians agree that the retreat means the broad trading range has been destroyed.

He added that the market has entered a new phase that may require several weeks of wide swings to outline the major trading limits.

W. I. La Tourette of Shearson, Ham[illegible]ill & Co. considered penetration of the former low mark as "a basically helpful development."

He looks for the average to stabilize at a moderately lower level and form a good base for the next advance.

"In any event," he said, "the wisest course would seem to be to stop worrying about the market as a whole and concentrate on the purchase of sound stocks in the electric utility, financial, entertainment, special situation fields, where many issues have been able to buck the trend of a generally declining market."

Investment planning should stress caution and conservatism, advises Standard & Poor's Corp.

In addition to the uncertainties currently confronting the market, the firm feels that an even bigger question mark applies to 1961.

"Efforts should be directed toward strengthening investment accounts by lightening positions in the more cyclical situations and reinvesting in securities better situated to ride out a minor storm. We especially favor high-grade bonds and preferred stocks."

The roads built by ancient Rome still form the skeleton for the highways of Europe.

PICKET TOTED AWAY—Plainclothes policemen carry away Michael Kostryka, of Queens, N. Y., outside the United Nations yesterday. Kostryka, who was among those picketing the U. N. Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The cosmetic folks are pushing eye-trimmin's for fall — and it's one man's opinion that it's going to make hat business look up.

"After a woman pays attention to her eyes, she naturally thinks of what comes next — a hat," said Charles Rothenberg, head of the Millinery Institute of America.

"But what's making us happy in hats is more than the marriage between eyes and hats," he said in an interview. "It's a three-way marriage — the short hair's helping the hat business, too."

The hat industry spokesman said milliners are getting set for the best boom in business in many a decade — as a result of what's happening to eyes and hair.

"For the first time in a long time," he said, "women aren't shopping for little things for topping.

"The nest of the past is passe. Because of the simple, short hairdos, a woman out after a hat wants a real hat."

A real hat, as Rothenberg sees it, is something other than a decoration for an elaborate hair-do.

"Because the hair-dos are functional, we've been able to come up with hats that look like hats. As a result, many more women, including some who shy from hats, will start to wear hats — because they look good in them."

The thing about the new hats—for fall and winter — is that they're made to snuggle up to the cranium like a man's hat.

"They're so sensible that you don't need hair clips or hat pins to hold them in place," Rothenberg said.

"We couldn't make these claims," he said, "unless we had the short hair-dos to work with. They're made for hat - wearers —that is, the woman who knows that it takes a hat as topping to look well-dressed."

HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — For the first time in its 75 years of publishing, Good Housekeeping magazine is honoring a motion picture—John Wayne's "The Alamo." Wade H. Nichols, editor of this magazine, says "we are motivated by a belief that this fine presentation of a great event in our national history deserves special recognition."

While "Duke" Wayne is justifiably proud of this, he's not relaxing on his laurels one bit. He's cabled Anita Ekberg to fly here to discuss doing "The African Story" with him.

Anita is very hot right now. She's in the controversial "Sweet Life," Fellini's picture, she's signed for "The Mongols" with Jack Palance in Rome, plus "Come to the Fair" with Orson Welles, and "A Frenchman Sees Paris" with Fernandel, to be made in France. But Duke will wait for her.

I cornered Jerry Wald at the Jack Benny party to ask him the usual question "What's new?"

He told me that he had been discussing the William Inge play "Celebration" (alias "Loss of Roses") with Kim Novak.

"You know Kim scored her greatest success in another Inge show, 'Picnic,' and she has a right, under her Columbia contract, to make an outside picture," said Jerry. "We have a good treatment which is better than the play on Broadway."

Jerry also told me that 20th Century-Fox is negotiating with James Thurber to script "Mr. Hobbs Takes a Vacation" which stars Jimmy Stewart.

"Thurber is past master at writing comedy," said Jerry, "and it will be great if we can get him."

At the Bennys', I asked Ray Stark about the reports he is selling "The World of Suzie Wong" o his former partner Eliot Hyman.

"I'd sell anything," he said, "if I get my price."

Then he admitted negotiations have been on and that he probably will sell the movie that took so long to make.

"With all the difficulty you had in making this motion picture, I should think you would want to have a hand in distributing it," I said. But I personally think Ray has had it when it comes to producing movies.

We are going to meet Nancy Kwan, the girl who played Suzie, at a party Fran and Ray Stark are giving next Saturday night.

With all the overemphasis on sex and cruelty in pictures lately, I was delighted with Fred Zinnemann's "The Sundowners" which is not only a genuine love story but a warm comedy, too.

This is the story of a family of hard-living sheep drovers in Australia, and Deborah Kerr, in her entire illustrious career, has never surpassed her tender and humorous performance here as a frowsy wife and mother. Robert Mitchum is nothing short of startling as the husband, and Zinnemann's discovery of young Mick Anderson, Jr., as the teen-age son was a master stroke, the boy is that good. There is sex in "The Sundowners" but it is the sex that means love, rather than lust, praise be.

Three Wills Are Probated

Three wills were admitted to probate yesterday in Orphans Court.

One of them was the will of A. Charles Stewart, 83, of Frostburg, who died September 11. Mr. Stewart was register of wills for many years prior to his death.

Miss Doris Stewart, a daughter, was named executrix of the will and she and Mr. Stewart's widow, Mrs. Pauline L. Stewart, are beneficiaries. Mr. Stewart operated a men's clothing store in Frostburg for many years and also was a county commissioner and tax collector.

The will of James Clendenning Reed, city, who died September 3, named his widow, Mrs. Regina C. F. Reed, as executrix and beneficiary.

The will of Anna Catherine Powers, city, who died August 28, named her son, John E. Powers, 216 Valley Street, as executor. The children of the deceased were named beneficiaries.

The will of Arthur J. Weber, local bank official and lumber plant president, who died September 8, named his widow, Louise D. Weber, and a son, James L. Weber, as executors.

After cash bequests to St. John's Lutheran Church and Salvation Army, the estate is bequeathed to the widow and children of the deceased..

Parochial School Pupil Asks County Bus Service

Following receipt of a letter from a McCoole resident concerning his daughter being refused transportation by a school bus to Westernport where she attends a parochial school, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners decided to turn the matter over to the Board of Education with the request that the commissioners be informed of what action is taken.

Wayne Tucker, of McCoole, wrote that his daughter attends St. Peter's School in Westernport and for the past two years had been given transportation to the parochial school by a school bus which carries public school children.

Last Wednesday his daughter was refused transportation, Tucker stated in his letter. He said that his daughter was informed there was no room for her. Tucker commented that he pays taxes and the transportation by public school bus is necessary if his daughter is to continue attending parochial school.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said the county commissioners have the power to order transportation for parochial school children and other church school groups if they desire.

Commissioner William A. Wilson said he would like to obtain the details in this case and other cases, but felt that if only one or two children along a school bus route needed transportation to a parochial school then it should be provided.

Commissioner John T. Mason said he also wanted to learn the facts in the case but wondered how a single child could not be given transportation on the excuse there was no room. He pointed out the child had been given transportation the last two years.

Kodiak, Alaska, calls itself "the oldest town and newest city" in the 49th state, the National Geographic magazine says. It stands on sheltered St. Paul harbor, near the northeast corner of 100-mile-long Kodiak Island. This island is inhabited by the world's biggest bears, a distinction that rules out a large-scale livestock industry.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Timely Tips For Enchanting Entrances And Exits

Lateness is a mark of carelessness — or selfishness. If you are affected in dress or manner, to often, people will mark you down as insincere. Remember, then, that etiquette frowns upon the theatrical entrance that combines lateness with affectation!

You are allowed a reasonable margin of minutes for any social engagement. When lunching or dining with another woman, 5 or 10 minutes' lateness is permissible. When you dine with a man, you may arrive as much as 15 minutes late and still be living up to the "acceptable" rules of punctuality. But don't you dislike having to wait for someone else? Why cause someone else to wait for you? Let your conscience be your tardiness guide.

When you do arrive at any gathering, arrive without fuss. No display of affection for the hostess is necessary. Greet those giving the party — hostess first, then the host — before speaking to the other guests.

Exit, like entrance, should be casual. When you must leave, simply thank your hostess for a pleasant time and don't prolong the leave-taking. You may want to say goodbye to all the guests at a small party. But if the gathering is large, confine your exit line to your hosts and those in the immediate conversation group.

There's only one hard-and-fast rule about the timing of your goodbyes: if the party includes a guest of honor, you don't leave before the special guest does.

Otherwise, you may set your own timetable — so long as you don't overstay your welcome.

Goodbyes said, don't linger. Your host and hostess have other guests to see off, and they won't thank you for standing in the doorway to be sure everyone else knows that you are about to leave.

LaVale Must Act On Sewage

The critical sewage problem in the LaVale area is being brought to a head by action taken yesterday by the Allegany County Health Department.

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, and J. Byron Dowling, senior state sanitarian, met with the County Board of Commissioners yesterday to describe the latest problem. This consists of three separate breaks in the sewage line serving a portion of Park Heights section of LaVale.

After a lengthy discussion of the matter the commissioners approved the second order to be served on the LaVale Sanitary Commission to have the situation corrected. A similar notice was served last week by the health agency.

Dr. van Strien said the sewage problem grows more acute every day and that something will have to be done. Dowling said he contacted an official of the LaVale Sanitary Commission to correct the breaks in the sewer line but was told the agency has no tools and would not undertake the work.

Meanwhile, W. Earle Cobey, attorney for the LaVale Sanitary Commission, said he and representatives of the agency and of Whitman and Requardt Associates, a Baltimore firm of consulting engineers, will meet with the County Planning Commission on Thursday at 7:30 p. m. to discuss the matter of sewage.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that the situation calls for immediate action. Commissioner William A. Wilson inquired if the county health agency in cases of individual sewage conditions could not employ a plumbing firm to make the corrections and then bill the property owner. Dr. van Strien said that under the law the county health unit has this power.

Rowan also reported that the LaVale Civic Improvement Association met Monday and is sending a letter to the State Board of Health urging some action be taken to force the LaVale Sanitary Commission to enter into the picture by doing something about the sewage problem.

Sommissioner John T. Mason said that the County Planning Commission will cooperate with the various groups throughout the county who are interested in solving their sewage problems.

Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the county commissioners, said that the serving of the orders on the LaVale agency will determine the jurisdiction of this body in connection with sewage problems. It may take court action to finally get a decision, he said.

Scout Troop Plans Court Of Honor

Boy Scout Troop 7 will hold a Court of Honor Monday at the Naval Reserve Center, McKaig's Hill, with the local Rotary Club sponsoring the affair.

Featuring the event will be the recognition of awards earned by scouts during the past nine months.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband thinks you are God's gift to American husbands. Me —I'd like to wring your neck.

Several months ago you said a wife should iron the bedsheets —so I started to iron them. That bedsheet controversy ran over into the ironing of shorts. You said if a husband wants his shorts ironed, iron 'em. So my big slob who never knew that shorts could be ironed, showed me the column and said "Ann thinks you should iron my shorts from now on."

I was pretty burned up, in fact I even considered sending you a bundle of his shorts to iron, but I decided to be a sport and go along with it.

NOW you come up with the insane advice that a wife should pick up after her husband. If you tell me WHY an able-bodied man should get this kind of service I'll shut up.

—LIVID VIV

DEAR VIV: I'm going to let everybody have their say and then I'll have MINE. Please stick with me. —ANN

DEAR MRS. LANDERS: You are the greatest. I just read your advice that a wife should pick up after her husband and I must say you are a wonderful psychologist.

A woman who is smart enough to do these little things for her husband is bound to get it back one-hundred fold. It makes him feel like a king to have such service. He enjoys the feeling of importance. At work nobody treats him so good.

I'm sure many women are mad at you but just ignore them. You're a smart dame.

A MALE ADMIRER

DEAR MALE: Thanks for those kind words. The women are ALL mad, but for every female enemy I've made a male friend. I figure it's a wash. More later. Read on —ANN

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll bet anything your husband has a butler who picks up after him. If YOU had to do the picking up you'd probably yell like the rest of us. —ME

DEAR YOU: Don't bet anything you need. There's no butler around here. I pick up after my husband and figure it's little enough to do for a man who has done so much for me.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Marvelous advice. I think it should be included directly below the seal on all marriage certificates. —HARRY

DEAR ANN: I used to beg him to pick up his things but he always insisted it "wasn't important."

One day he told me he was bringing home some school buddies for dinner. I left everything as it was the night before — papers strewn all over, cigaret butts (his), beer bottles, clothes on chairs, tie over lamp—a real mess.

When my husband and the men arrived I said "Don't mind the looks of the house. My husband says it's not important." Needless to say his face turned eight shades of red. But it cured him.—NEAT NELL

DEAR ANN: Have you flipped? Could it have been a misprint? Please explain. I couldn't believe my eyes.—EDYE

DEAR EDYE: No misprint. I said it and I meant it. A neat husband is a prize. There shouldn't be any other kind. But there ARE.

By the time a man marries the pattern is set. Some men are amenable to suggestion. Others are not. If yours is not, then pick up after him and say nothing. Constant "reminding" makes you a nag, and you usually wind up picking up anyway. Then everybody's mad. It's not worth it.

If you're going to chew at a guy it should be over something important.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed, envelope.)

A graded Guernsey cow named "Calico" owned by Workman Brothers, RD 1, Frostburg, was the top producer of butterfat during August of cows tested in the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association program.

Second in the list was a graded Holstein owned by John T. Mason, Cresaptown. The cow was produced by artificial insemination and is listed as No. 4-3.

A registered Holstein owned by Mason produced 1,560 pounds of milk and 62 pounds of butterfat. A graded Holstein owned by Harry W. Delbrook, Mt. Savage, produced 1,430 pounds of milk and 62 pounds of butterfat. C. W. Brinker's cow, "Ginny," a graded Holstein, produced 7,810 pounds of milk and 62 pounds of butterfat. Two registered Holsteins owned by Mason were next with production of 1,580 pounds of milk and 1,400 pounds of milk and 60 pounds each of butterfat. Shumaker Brothers graded Holstein produced 1,520 pounds of milk and 58 pounds of butterfat for the tenth position.

Helicopter Downed In Area Resumes Flight

A helicopter, forced to land on Big Savage Mountain Monday because of heavy fog, flew into Cumberland Municipal Airport about 11 a.m. yesterday, refueled, then continued its flight to New London Airport near Newark, Del.

The 47G2 helicopter was enroute from Clarksburg, W. Va., when a fog bank forced the pilot, S. A. Atkins of 200 West Ninth Street, Wilmington, Del., to land yesterday about 2:25 p. m. Atkins said he did not have a flight plan and was following U. S. Route 40. Reports the copter had been damaged in landing proved to be erroneous.

The landing was made about one mile west of Frostburg in a small clearing. Tfc. B. J. Chabot investigated and supplied Atkins with blankets and a flashlight. Atkins intended to stay with the craft all night to prevent curiosity seekers from damaging it, but a Civil Air Patrol member offered to stand guard and Atkins spent the night at a Frostburg motel.

Early this morning, Atkins made another attempt but found the fog still too thick. He returned to Frostburg and set the craft down on the soccer field at Frostburg State Teachers College. He left there at 10:40 a. m. for Cumberland.

Atkins is employed by Delacopters of Wilmington, a charter plane organization, and was flying the recently-purchased craft to his home field.

The ancient Romans called an orange yellow metal mined on Cyprus "Cypriumaes" or Cyprian brass. This term was later contracted to "coprum" and then to the English word "copper."

Complaints about losses caused by bad distribution should fall on unsympathetic ears if those losses could easily have been avoided. When a hand appears on the surface to be ironclad, that is the time to look around for possible accidents and to guard against their occurrence. That is the creed of the safety play.

South's immediate leap to five diamonds neatly blocked East and West from finding their heart fit. When neither his partner, nor East bid hearts, South was certain that West had a great many of that suit and might enter the bidding if given a convenient chance to do so. It may be noted that game in hearts is a laydown, and a cheap one trick save is available even at the five level.

The seven of spades was opened against the five diamond contract, and declarer took it with the ace in dummy. He forthwith led a trump which East took with the ace and a spade return was ruffed by West. The ace of clubs was the setting trick. Declarer said he didn't play East for a six card spade suit. It is our conviction that South was guilty of negligence of the first order.

The only thing that could cause the defeat of the contract was a ruff. Now a six card suit in the hand of a person who has made an overcall can hardly be termed a fantastic holding. So declarer should have protected himself against this possibility by cashing the ace of hearts at trick two and shedding his other spade. Now when East is in with the ace of trumps he may return a spade, but declarer can ruff high enough to insure winning the trick and then only the ace of clubs need be lost.

Over 25,000 Use Facilities At Park Pool

Final figures for the 1960 swimming season at Constitution Park pool released by the Recreation Department show that 25,448 used facilities compared to 24,203 the same period a year ago.

C. Eugene Mason, recreation director, said this year's total includes 10,314 adults and 15,134 students. Nominal prices charged for use of the pool were 35 cents for adults and 15 cents for students and children under 12 years of age.

Pool use has shown a steady increase since 1958 when the total was 21,094 and Mason said this was one of its most successful years. He praised the work of Charles Smith, manager, and John Morris, head lifeguard, and noted that a number of improvements had been made.

Under supervision of Robert R. Golden, superintendent at the park, the park crew sandblasted and painted half of the pool aqua-blue in the spring and its hoped to do the same with the other half this fall.

A water basketball game was added to pool facilities in the latter part of the season and proved extremely popular, Mason said. A new diving board was also installed.

One adult swimming class was held with 15 participants and youth classes from the playgrounds attracted another 425. In addition, one livesaving instruction class was held with 20 enrolled.

By month, the pool attendance was as follows: May (two days), 139; June, 7,705; July, 9,315; August, 7,046, and September, 1,247. The pool opened Memorial Day, May 30, and closed Labor Day, September 5.

Highest single day was the third one of the season, Sunday, June 5, when 930 used the pool. The same day in 1959 also was the highest for that year with 858.

Over the July 4 weekend this year (three days), 1,477 used the pool, Mason said.

Can Expect Welcome

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U. S. Ambassador to Japan Douglas MacArthur II said Tuesday after a conference with President Eisenhower that Japan's crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko can expect an enthusiastic welcome in the United States.

MacArthur said he did not think there would be any unpleasant incidents during their two-week visit as a public reaction to the mob-enforced cancellation of Eisenhower's June visit to Japan. The Japanese royal couple arrives in the United States Thursday.

RECORDINGS GO FOREIGN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — George Sidney, producing and directing "Pepe," plans to release recordings of two of the leading songs from the film in five different languages.

The songs, recorded in French, German, Spanish, Italian and English are the "Pepe" title song sung by Cantinflas and a group of young singers, and "Lovely Day," sung by Shirley Jones.

Sign Hazards On City Poles Discussed

The Police Department has undertaken a program to remove signs from light and phone poles within the city limits which pose a hazard to workmen of the two utilities as well as members of the Fire Department who must service the alarm system.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming, Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney and Mayor J. Edwin Keech met with representatives of the Potomac Edison and C&P Telephone companies.

Fleming said where sign hazards exist, the department will erect its own standards for signs.

The Police Department with Officer Louis Downey in charge, conducted a survey of the situation. Approximately 304 poles with type of sign affixed were included in the survey report.

Also discussed at the meeting was the practice of individuals, organizations and others placing signs and notices on poles in the city.

This practice is against city regulations. Not only does it cause an unattractive appearance when signs are partly ripped away after serving their purpose, but nails are left in the poles, creating a hazard for climbers who could suffer serious injury, Fleming said.

Chapter 14, Section 14 of the city code makes it unlawful to post or fasten to any public bridge, lamp post, telegraph or electric pole, any posters, advertisements, or any printed or written announcement.

Violation of the statute carries a fine of not less than $1 nor more than $10 for each offense, Fleming said.

West Virginia University Gets Its Biggest Bequest

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — A gift described as the largest ever made to West Virginia University has been willed to the institution by an alumnus, it was announced by the school Tuesday.

WVU President Elvis J. Stahr Jr. said Arlen G. Swiger, New York attorney who graduated from the university in 1908, left the gift in the form of the residual trust interest from his estate, valued at more than $1 million.

Swiger, who died Aug. 21, was senior partner in the law firm of Swiger, Kelley, Harragan & Shott. His will stipulated that the money from the trust interest be used to establish a scholarship, fellowship and prize fund.

Swiger provided that he fund be known as the "Louise and Arlen Swiger Scholarships." Louise Swiger is his widow and a former Morgantown native.

Eligible recipients will be men and women needing financial assistance and those who have excelled in a particular field of studies or research, whether or not in need of financial assistance.

Liquor Prober Says W. Va. Needs New Law

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A member of the West Virginia Crime Commission says a revision of the state's current liquor laws would "diminish considerably" the state's problems with illegal activities.

State Sen. William A. Moreland, Morgantown Democrat, said in a radio interview Monday night that there is a good deal of sentiment for submitting the liquor-by-the-drink issue to voters on a local option basis. It is now sold legally only in state stores.

Under present conditions, Moreland said he did not think any police agency could enforce the law because it was unpopular in some areas.

He said this was because "people in high places" belong to private clubs and authorities are not inclined to disturb them too much, or to crack down on the "little man" because that would appear unfair.

Moreland denied the Crime Commission was out after "anyone's scalp," but admitted, "I'm not satisfied with the operations of the superintendent of State Police (Hazen Fair) and I think that by the time we get through, the people will find out that he should not be continued in office."

Coal Show Will Open

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (UPI) — The 15th Bluefield Coal show opens Wednesday with three days of exhibits of latest developments in mine machinery and equipment.

Some 1,800 representatives of exhibitors from 18 states are expected to attend the three-day show.

There also will be entertainment, featuring crowning of Janice Taylor of Caretta, McDowell County, as queen of the show, and a reunion of men who have worked more than 40 years in mines.

The Norfolk & Western Railway will use the occasion for the first public exhibition of its unique 85-ton roller-bearing coal hopper car.

Cobey Will Head Chamber Committee

W. Earle Cobey has been appointed chairman of the educational committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the committee are J. Glenn Beall Jr., J. Goodloe Jackson, Duard H. Little and William L. Wilson Jr.

The committee has been asked to continue to gather information and make recommendations to the Chamber's board of directors concerning educational facilities in the area.

program. Prior to 1953 the Lions raised funds for the program by selling Christmas trees, sponsoring a horse show and other money-raising activities.

How does the program function?

Youngsters in public schools of the county have their eyes tested in a program set up by school officials. In the event a child requires attention, his parents are notified.

If they are unable to pay for necessary professional attention, the parents are advised that a health department nurse will investigate the case and in turn will report to the Lions committee if further action is necessary.

A public health nurse is responsible for checking on the eyesight of parochial school children. They too are given the benefit of the Lions program if their parents are unable to pay the bill. There have been instances of children in fringe communities of West Virginia and Pennsylvania getting assistance from the Lions.

Annual Reviews Provided

Each year the committees of the Lions Clubs meet with the health department and professional men to discuss the program.

Mr. Davis relates an instance of generosity on the part of a top eye surgeon in the nation.

An Oldtown Road youngster, about five, was examined by a local eye specialist who suggested the boy be operated on by the Philadelphia surgeon, one of two top men in his profession.

The initial operation cost was $500 and two succeeding bills amounted to $300 each. The parents of the boy indicated they will be able to pay the hospital bill but find the cost of the operations a definite hardship.

The Lions Club here was asked for assistance. In turn the eye conservation committee wrote to the surgeon and explained the financial situation. He wrote back and said there would be no charge for his services.

Appeal Is Filed To Zoning Board

Edward M. Shank, 220 Harrison Street, has filed an appeal with the Board of Zoning Appeals for an occupancy permit.

His application for a permit to occupy Lot 8 and part of Lot 9 of Reservoir Avenue for a dwelling was turned down by the building engineers on grounds of insufficient side yards.

Plans called for locating 41⅓-foot-wide frame dwelling on a 50-foot lot. The zoning ordinance requires that one fifth of the lot must be in side yards in a residential B zone.

Church Plans Special Program On Sunday

The fall family night covered dish dinner will be held Sunday at 6 p.m. at Grace Methodist Church on Virginia Avenue. Rev. Robert C. Nimon, pastor, said group singing will be led by James G. Stevenson, with special musical selections and greetings by leaders of the various organizations of the church.

The speaker for the occasion will be Rev. Carlton M. Harris, minister of Centre Street Methodist Church.

PE Kilowatt Hour Sales Up In 1960

Directors of the Potomac Edison Company were informed Monday that kilowatt hour sales in the first eight months of this year were four per cent ahead of those in the same period a year ago.

The announcement of the increase was made by PE President Robert G. MacDonald, who added the increase would have been even higher if summer-month temperatures had been higher.

Company temperature records show that the average mean temperatures for the past few months were several degrees lower than a year ago. "The consequence," Mr. MacDonald stated, "was less need for air conditioning, ventilation and refrigeration."

Owen E. Hitchens, this city, a director of the company, and Garland L. Johnston, PE's district manager for this area, also were informed at the meeting that sales to residential customers showed a seven per cent increase and sales to commercial customers went up nearly seven per cent this year.

Mr. MacDonald also reported the average local electric company customer is now using over 4,000 kilowatt hours annually — an average that "very few of the nation's electric utilities can equal."

PE board members also were informed that during the month of August new power supply records were established on four different occasions.

Construction projects, Mr. MacDonald said, are proceeding on schedule. One of the largest of these is the construction of a high voltage transmission line between the Riverton, Va., generating station and the town of Luray, Va.

Films To Be Shown At YFC Rally Here

This week's Tri-State Youth for Christ rally will feature two teen-age films, "Teen to Teen" and "Teen-age Conflict," in observance of the annual Youth for Christ sponsor's night.

"Teen to Teen," a 17-minute sound motion picture produced by the Portland, Ore., Youth for Christ, shows the method of Youth for Christ evangelism — teens challenging teens.

"Teen-age Conflict," a 30-minute dramatic film, was produced to help the teen-ager face apparent conflict of modern-day science and the Bible.

The interdenominational Saturday night rallies, with singing and special music, are conducted in the First Methodist Church on Frederick Street at 7:45 p. m. The public is invited to attend.

W. Va. Opens Bids On Five Projects

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Low bids totaling some $650,000 were opened Tuesday by the State Road Commission on five projects.

The projects and apparent low bids included:

Tyler County—bridge on W. Va. 18 at Sistersville; Harman Bros., Grafton, $67,258.

Monongalia — rebuilding .82 miles of Secondary 40-5 to Hildebrand Lock & Dam; Bill Bowling Construction Co., White Sulphur Springs, $42,538.

Berkeley County — grading and paving 400 feet of Interstate 81 under two recently-completed bridges; Victor Funderberg, Martinsburg, $345,830.

Barron, Neely Debate Roads Program

Democratic nominee W. W. Barron charged that the Republican administration has had more money than any other in West Virginia's history yet has done less than any administration since 1932. That was the final year of the last previous GOP administration.

Republican candidate Harold E. Neely acknowledged that there has been more money available to the Road Commission, but denied it has not been well spent. He said that since 1956 — the last year of the Marland Democratic administration — there has been a 600 per cent increase in new road building alone.

The exchange between the two candidates came at a meeting of the Wheeling Rotary Club. Each spoke for 10 minutes, then was given five minutes of rebuttal time.

Defending administration road practices, Neely said a program proposed by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood to give the state a network of modern highways "would have been well under way now if it were not for a 'reject' Democratic legislature."

Barron said greater cooperation is needed between communities and the state government in industrialization efforts. He said many communists have done a good job to get industry, "but have received little or no help from the state."

He observed: "We must truthfully and objectively analyze ourselves and the skeletons in our state closet."

Neely described the State Temporary Economic Program (STEP), instituted this year, as "the first program of its kind ever proposed in the state to take up the automation reserve"—unemployment caused by mechanization in coal mines, etc.

Neely said that under the STEP program, "many people have been given a chance to live again, and it has helped return dignity to the unemployed."

Barron and Neely agreed on one point — that West Virginia has the assets to improve its economic status if it recognizes and properly advertises them to prospective new industries.

2 New Stamps Available Here

Copies of two new stamps are available in post offices of this area.

Of special interest to residents of Maryland is the four-cent American Credo stamp featuring Francis Scott Key's "And this be our Motto, in God is our Trust" from the "Star Spangled Banner."

It was placed on sale last week in Baltimore and is appropriately printed in red, white and blue.

The second stamp is a four-cent commemorative issue marking the 150th anniversary of Mexican independence and is a joint Mexico-United States issue.

The central feature is the bell brought to Mexico from Dolores, Mexico, where Miguel Hidalgo rang it in his church in his call for independence.

The central design is printed in a shade of ink similar to that used for the Mexican flag, and inscriptions are printed in the green used on the Mexican flag. It went on sale in San Francisco last week.

A Problem Of Competition

"Runaway shops" and "runaway ships" have been standard trade union jargon ever since New England mills began to move south and American ships began re-registering under Panamanian and Liberian flags.

Now is added "runaway production," applying strictly to Hollywood, once the glamor capital of the nation.

"Runaway production" is what the movie industry unions call the growing trend among movie makers to film their pictures overseas. The unions claim the movie industry does this more for economy than for authentic scenery, and they threaten to make this a matter for discussion in new contract talks.

Shop, ship or movie production, these "runaways" are serious problems for the unions involved. Yet the movie unions' contemplated approach to the problem, which takes the form of demanding "standby workers" in this country for jobs actually performed overseas, is more a punishment than a solution.

It was not southern cooking that lured the textile industry south any more than the design of the foreign flags attracted segments of the American shipping industry. In both those cases, as now with the movie industry, it may be asked whether these industries are running away or are they being chased away.

The long-range answer to the unions' problem is to stop being museum-keepers and instead face up to the fact that American industry's best weapon against cheap labor competition from abroad is unhampered application of new production methods.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Conservatives

There are two ways of fighting for an ideal: one is to be inside a group; the other way is to be outside looking in. The conservatives in the Republican Party were the prevailing element in the Harding, Coolidge and Hoover Administrations. During the Roosevelt Administration, the Republican Party became the possession of the managerial elements in Business who are neither conservatives nor liberals but who want to win an election on the incorrect assumption that those who help to elect a President can control him after he is elected. They nominated Alf Landon, Wendell Willkie, Thomas E. Dewey and Dwight D. Eisenhower. They rejected Robert A. Taft.

The rank and file of the Republican Party is essentially conservative but not sufficiently so to leave the party for membership in some other party. Although in the Willkie and Dewey elections too many Republicans failed to vote, the conservatives nevertheless did not organize a party of their own. Such a group did come out of the Southern Democrats but it did not go far. The subject has often been discussed but nothing substantial has ever come of it because it is difficult for Republican conservatives to agree on a program. There are too many sects, cults, and groups among them. The conservative economists, for instance, will not associate with conservative crackpots.

The first Republican conservative of political magnitude to appear since the death of Robert A. Taft is Senator Barry Goldwater, a man of most unusual experience for a politician and whose mind has a philosophic cast. Even though Senator Goldwater's ideas often run against the current tide, he is a practical man in the sense that he recognizes that to accomplish anything politically, it is essential to be in the place at the time when accomplishment is possible. Yelling on the outside may be lots of fun but it does not affect anything politically. In a two party system country, the practical politician makes his way within a party. In the Republican Party, Senator Goldwater is a very influential man with a following large enough at the Convention to have been important.

Many conservatives have been critical of Senator Goldwater for supporting Vice President Richard Nixon at the Republican Convention. Their argument is a non-political one, namely that Goldwater might have been nominated for the Presidency. Dan Smooth, a radio broadcaster who also issues a newsletter and who has a considerable following among conservatives, particularly is annoyed with Senator Goldwater. Smoot says:

"If . . . Goldwater had fought the Republican blueprint for socialism by demanding roll-call votes on the floor, he would have gained such strength by the time his name was placed in nomination that he very probably would have won. At the very least, he could have made a most impressive showing for the conservative cause. As he handled it (far from winning great respect for the conservative cause, as is widely claimed) Goldwater convinced the nation that conservatives have little strength, and no courage or leadership to use what they have."

The latter judgment would undoubtedly be correct. While the rank and file of the Republican Party and probably of this naiton is conservative, there is no national conservative organization equivalent to the ADA; there is no conservative program which a sufficient number of persons would accept; there are too many conservatives devoted to side issues which frighten away genuine, philosophic conservatives, and there are too many who while they say that they are conservatives cannot define the term. The only conservative magazine of any stature in the country, "National Review," has a small circulation. A conservative newsletter comes out of Washington entiled "Human Events."

Senator Barry Goldwater's leadership could build a segment of practical conservatives who are politically oriented and who do not devote themselves to crackpot diversions. By any definition of terms, the Nixon-Lodge ticket represents a more conservative outlook on the American trend than the Kennedy-Johnson ticket does, although by 1962, if the movement of gold from the United States continues, whoever is President will meet the same challenge and may be forced to make the same decisions. It used to be that the universities taught a subject called Political Economy which was an excellent term for our major problem. It is impossible to separate politics from economics. There are many who call themselves conservatives and shriek against socialism but who favor many inflationary measures which must lead to socialism.

'Now – Who Do We Promise Everything Next?'

U. S. Citizens Don't Understand Ways Of Latin American Nations

By Drew Pearson

NEW YORK—About the time Fidel Castro and Nikita Khrushchev were arriving in New York, one of the largest shipments of arms in years arrived in Havana harbor. It came on a Soviet vessel, the SS. Ilya Mechnikov out of Odessa, and had every appearance of resulting from Raul Castro's recent trip to Czechoslovakia, and Moscow, where he tightened the ties between Cuba and the Kremlin and arranged for a trade of Cuban sugar for arms from Czechoslovakia's giant Skoda works.

The ship contained far more arms than necessary for Castro's army and the only possible need for such a large supply would be to foment revolutions or invade other Latin-American countries. This highlights a fact which is difficult for the average North American to understand, but which is essential for him to grasp regarding our vitally important Pan-American relations. It's illustrated by the fact that Panama, generally pro-American, sided against us at the recent San Jose Conference of the Organization of American States on the question of rebuffing Cuba.

Panama has actually been invaded by a Castro expeditionary force. It knows what arms in the hands of Castro means. Yet the Panamanian government opposed any strong OAS criticism of Cuba at San Jose.

It's also illustrated by the stand of Mexico, which worked to tone down any criticism of Cuba at San Jose. Last week, Secretary of State Herter, visiting Mexico City for the 150th anniversary of Mexican independence, asked Manuel Tello, kindly and able Mexican foreign minister, why he had not supported the United States at San Jose.

"You don't understand the Mexican Revolution," Tello replied.

Then he proceeded to give an explanation of Mexico's revolution which was fought over the same basic principles as Cuba's —agrarian reform, expropriation of oil properties, and the clash of a low living standard with foreign capital.

Manuel Tello has lived in the United States for years. He is considered one of our best friends. So is Mexican President Lopez Mateos. Neither sides with Castro. Neither wants Communist or Soviet or Red Chinese influence in the Western Hemisphere.

President Lopez Mateos has acted with great vigor against Communists in Mexico. He has jailed pro-Communist labor leaders and even jailed Alfaro Siqueiros, the famous painter, for the part he played in the Mexican Communist Party. Siqueiros is a popular figure in art and intellectual circles, yet he is now in jail on the charge of "social disillusionment." Yet, at the same time the Mexican government cracked down on Communism and Castro, it refused to join other Pan-American nations in criticizing the Cuban regime. The reason is, not only that Mexico experienced the same revolutionary struggle but also because Castro has done something to the people of all Latin America. He has unleashed a certain economic restlessness, a demand for social changes in almost every Latin country which is bound to affect the United States.

Historic Pact

Douglas Dillon, Under Secretary of State, signed a historic document in Bogota, Colombia, the other day by which the United States agreed to advance half a billion dollars for the development of Latin America, including agrarian reform. Douglas Dillon used to be the executive of the Dillon Read banking firm, founded by his father, Clarence Dillon.

Most people have forgotten it, but in 1928 the same firm lent $23,000,000 to the Bolivian government chiefly to buy arms from Vickers Ltd., for the purpose of attacking Paraguay. This started the Chaco War. The loan was negotiated in typical old-fashioned capitalistic tradition without regard to peace or war, and with the finance minister of Bolivia receiving a healthy cut. Consider the change between 1928 and 1960; also the change between the operation of Douglas Dillon today and his father 30 years ago!

The new loan agreement, signed by the younger Dillon on behalf of the U. S., cuts the bankers out of the finance gravy. It also puts up money for land reform which the United States called revolutionary when Mexico started seizing land three decades ago.

Consider also the change since only six years ago. In 1954, George Humphrey, then Secretary of the Treasury, was top American delegate to the Pan-American Economic Conference in Rio De Janeiro at which he laid down tight restrictions against U. S. Government loans to Latin-American countries. He wanted the bankers to handle practically all loans to Latin America, and also was against loans to countries which would not permit exploitation of their oil and minerals by American firms. He also shuddered at loans for agrarian reform.

With the Bogota loan agreement signed by Under Secretary Dillon last week all these restrictions are out the window. The Humphrey policy is completely reversed. We have reversed it in order to head off Fidel Castro's. His program of seizing land has begun to spread among landless Latin Americans. And rather than watch the change come with violence and revolution, the Eisenhower administration has decided to help it come normally and legally.

The tragedy is that he waited so long. If we had not waited, if we had looked ahead, if Ike had not taken his policy only from George Humphrey, the revolution in Cuba would not have happened, and a Soviet satellite would not be 90 miles away from the U. S. shore.

TV Networks Should Not Seek Out Mr. K

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Impressed by what television and radio did for him on his last visit to the United States, Nikita Khrushchev is anxious to use America's broadcasting facilities again to try to put over his propaganda to millions of listeners in this country. Will he succeed? There are indications he will fail.

The Moscow government has published in English a book that has just reached Washington which exults over the propaganda gains the Communists achieved while Khrushchev was here a year ago.

After going through the usual tirades and distortions about the "warmongering" and the "befogging of men's minds" that allegedly goes on over the television and radio in this country, the book says:

"And yet in the history of American television there will always remain thirteen bright days when the intent blue eyes of television cameras with their electronic power of vision tirelessly followed Khrushchev's tour of the United States. Americans have to thank television for the fact that not just a few dozen fortunate journalists out of the hundreds who accompanied Khrushchev on his tour were able to keep in close touch with him, but also tens of millions of Americans sitting in front of their television sets. To the specific nature of television Americans owe the fact that the great ideas of Khrushchev's tour reached them in their true shape and not distorted in the crooked mirror of the tendentious press. . . .

"It would be naive to suspect America's television bosses of being exceptionally objective. They simply could not ignore the demands of millions of American viewers. Their desire to outrun and outshoot their competitors, and to make money, often forced other considerations into the background. But, of course, they did not fully foresee what they had committed themselves to. . . .

"Khrushchev's speeches in America may be said to have given birth to an entirely new form of publicistic activity based on the techniques of the atomic age, and as different from the traditions of publicistic writing as it is from those of political speeches. We have in mind free television debates in which many millions of viewers can watch ideological clashes between the main forces of the Communist ideology and the main forces of the ideology of capitalism. . . .

"Altogether, American television lenses scanned Khrushchev's face for dozens of hours. And the tens of millions of people who saw him on television realized that this was straightforwardness, sincerity, and truth. . . .

"By the magic of television it came about that for thirteen days nearly every American home had a Communist guest who did not hide his views and intentions in the face of all America, and of the whole world. . . .

"For tens of millions of Americans, television became in those days a school of social thought, an unforgettable university."

As for the wishful thinkers in America, the book quotes a speech made after his arrival in Vladivostok by Khrushchev in which he said:

"When I was preparing for the trip to the United States at the invitation of President Eisenhower, some people in America said: Khrushchev will come to our country, he will see our wealth, our strength, and he will change his views. Perhaps they hoped that I would change my views and abandon Communist ideas? But, of course, only foolish people could think that."

Today the American people know how the Soviet ruler tricked the United States President into receiving him as a guest by giving a false promise that President Eisenhower would be able to go to the Soviet Union and speak on television and radio to the Soviet people. But when the time came to make good on that promise the Soviet dictator welched on it. He trumped up an excuse about U-2 flights which he admitted later he had known about for four years. The truth is the Soviet chief never had any intention of permitting the President of the United States to speak as freely to the people behind the Iron Curtain as he himself had been allowed to do inside this country. He is afraid the seeds of revolt will be planted when the truth reaches his people.

Indeed all the pious observations of appeasers in Britain and elsewhere who are saying restrictions imposed on Khrushchev's movements in the United States outside of Manhattan Island are "silly" can be deflated by pointing to the palpable lack of reciprocity. There is no reason for the press or television or radio failing to report in proper proportion any news that arises in connection with Khrushchev's visit to the United Nations in New York City, but the granting of special opportunities to him to carry on his propaganda has been questioned.

The State Department has informally indicated to the networks a belief that news coverage at the United Nations is sufficient and that interviews and panel shows with Khrushchev ought to be suspended until high officials of the American government get similar facilities behind the Iron Curtain. If anyone has any doubts about the existence of a lack of reciprocity, let him read the following dispatch that came last week on the wires of the Reuters Press Service from Bonn, West Germany:

"The Soviet Union and other Communist bloc countries at present operate more than 2,000 jamming transmitters from 225 stations in an attempt to block Western radio broadcasts."

Inside Washington

REAL BLOW — American prestige will suffer again if the Russians send a man into space. Few Space Administration officials doubt that the Soviets could already accomplish this feat if they wished. Many top U.S. scientists glumly suspect that the Russians are holding off only for a suitable occasion to get the utmost propaganda value out of sending a human being into space. Khrushchev's UN visit could be just the occasion.

One thing seems certain, the ostensible purpose of Khrushchev's visit—to present the Russian plan for "total disarmament" to the UN—is not the real purpose of his visit. The Russian dictator is a hard-headed realist and he knows full well that the United States could never accept any such proposals without an adequate system of inspection to make sure that the agreements were being carried out. To do so would be to court national suicide at the hands of a surprise Russian nuclear attack.

Khrushchev knows this full well, of course. The Russian strategy on disarmament proposals for many years has been to make sweeping — and meaningless — proposals for total disarmament . . . meanwhile, of course, cynically refusing to consider any means of inspection making any such agreement meaningful.

America is pictured by Soviet propaganda as the cause of the cold war tensions which beset the world. Crude propaganda, but highly effective in the backward areas of the world where the all-important battle for men's minds is being fought.

There seems no doubt that this is the charade which Khrushchev intends to re-enact with the whole world for a forum.

The sad fact seems to be that since the death of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, (who was a very tough customer, indeed, for the Russians to get the better of . . . so much so that Pravda and Izvestia still froth at the mouth when writing of the deceased foreign policy chief) America has been left as far behind in statecraft as its scientists have in the space race.

An incidental side effect of the Khrushchev visit to the United Nations will be to exert a profound effect upon the American Presidential election. This is unquestionably a factor the wily Soviet premier had in mind in scheduling the trip. Despite his widely - heralded anti-Nixon remarks, it is doubtful that he much prefers one candidate to another. A much more likely Khrushchev aim would be to destroy as much of the prestige and reputation as he can of both Nixon and Kennedy.

Once more, President Dwight D. Eisenhower has deplored the religious issue in the current campaign. Of course, the louder he deplores, the bigger the issue becomes. It is like a hospital crying: "We admit everyone regardless of race, creed or color." This is bragging by negation. We pretend that we have risen above something by calling attention to it.

As yet we aren't mature enough as a nation of growing people to rise above bigotry. It may come in time. But we're young, and most of us have been indoctrinated by our parents from the cradle on. It isn't easy to shed old fears, even groundless fears. Most of us will go to the grave still harboring slight fears of the dark, deep water, and people of another color.

There are those who say that, if Senator John Kennedy loses some votes because of his Roman Catholicism, he will pick some up from Catholics who are normally Republicans. I talked to several at the Republican Convention in Chicago, and I do not believe that this is true. The Catholics are so accustomed to voting for a Protestant that it comes as no cultural hardship to continue.

The trend of public sympathy is with Mr. Kennedy. People do not like to admit that matters like religion, or marital problems, or something out of the past would have a bearing on a man's chance of being elected President of the United States. But it does have a bearing, and I think we should face it.

Religion is an issue this time. At little house parties around the nation, old friendships are breaking up because of it. The Protestant who sincerely admires Mr. Nixon and wants to vote for him, is now obliged to defend himself against a charge of bigotry. He is the subject of barbed questions and subtle indictments.

"You voted for Adlai last time, didn't you? Then how come you're for Nixon this time? What church do you attend?"

This is as bigoted, as anti-Protestant, as the other side of the dirty coin. No man or woman should have to defend a choice. I'm a Roman Catholic, but I don't know yet which way I'm going to vote. I have spent a little time with both candidates and, for the first time in my life, I feel that we have nominated a pair of good men and the United States will not lose no matter which way the race goes.

The bigoted Catholic who thinks that this election is a crusade is as much in error as the Protestant who thinks that, if Mr. Kennedy is elected, he will owe obedience to the Pope. He owes nothing to his church beyond adherence to the spiritual laws, which are framed around the Ten Commandments. If John XXIII tried to inject himself, in the slightest way, into the temporal affairs of this nation, he would set his church back hundreds of years.

If it is true that a Catholic owes anything to his church beyond an accounting of the husbandry of his soul, then I am in favor of removing from office all Catholic judges, governors, senators, and representatives, starting with the Secretary of Labor, James Mitchell. A Catholic, like a Protestant, a Moslem, a Jew or a Buddhist, must live off his conscience.

The Pope, too, must live by conscience and by law. He has no more right to run through a red light in Rome than you. In a way, his life is more lawful than that of the rest of us because the 450,000,000 Catholics of the world come from many nations, and he cannot afford to offend any of them. Even in war, he must be supercareful because he has Catholics on both sides of the conflict.

The only thing this campaign has done is to permit the cranks to crawl out of the woodwork with honor. They can now mail their snide epistles or express their pseudo-fears to the press without fear of being held in contempt.

One of my personal heroes is Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, of the Marble Collegiate Church in New York City. He is a fine writer and, I am sure, a good pastor. Recently, Dr. Peale was in a group that met behind closed doors in Washington. The group announced that a Catholic President would be "under extreme pressure from the hierarchy of his church" to bring U. S. foreign policies in line with Vatican objectives.

Dr. Peale knows that this is not true. But, even if it were, the highest Vatican objective is the same as President Eisenhower's and Dr. Peale's—peace in the whole world.

I hate to see mud on the heels of a hero. . . .

What Eye Tests Show, And How Glasses Help

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

What does 20/20 vision mean? It is the ability to distinguish a certain size letter that is 20 feet away. If the individual cannot see this letter, he is asked to read a larger size. If he can barely read a letter twice the normal size at 20 feet, his vision is 20/40.

The size of the letter a person with normal vision sees clearly at 20 feet is based on the observations of Hooke, an astronomer who lived three centuries ago. It is too complicated to explain but the various letters on the standard Snellen chart (FLOTDEXC) are approximately 3/8 inch high and wide and 1-16 inch thick.

The Snellen illiterate E chart is made up of various size E's in different positions, such as upside down or on their back. Snellen devised these charts more than a century ago; they are routine in schools and are used more and more in physicians' offices.

These tests measure visual acuity, which is the ability to see forms or shapes of objects. Glasses are recommended when they correct a visual handicap or alleviate eye discomfort. They cannot improve on perfect vision; even those who do hard and detailed work requiring sharp seeing eyes don't need glasses if vision is perfect.

Glasses do not prevent eye disorders from progressing. The nearsighted (myoptic) child has a condition that tends to increase with growth and age. Parents should not blame the early use of glasses for the fact that vision is becoming increasingly worse. Spectacles help to see better but the eyes must be re-examined at intervals to determine whether the lenses need changing.

Glasses don't cure anything except certain types of cross-eye. In such instances, they force the weaker eye to pull over until it regains strength. Protective goggles have saved the eyes of hundreds of working men from intense light and flying particles.

TOMORROW: The boil nuisance.

HORSE AND BUGGY

E. M. writes: You said recently that lemon juice in water kills nothing but the taste. How can you make such a statement? I read in an old doctor book that the juice of ½ a lemon in a pail of water kills typhoid germs.

REPLY

YOU KNOW BEST

P. C. writes: What are the do's and don'ts an aged person should and should not do?

REPLY

Any person who has reached a ripe old age is an authority on how to live. It is foolish and often dangerous for a younger individual to tell him what he should and should not do.

COFFEE SUPPLIES FLUID

Mrs. S. writes: I drink 6 to 8 cups of coffee a day. Does this supply enough fluid or should I drink more water?

REPLY

You are getting adequate fluids but many persons would become jittery on this much coffee.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Lt. Col. Vernon Walters has reassuring words for interpreters who fear that they soon may be replaced by electronic brains. The colonel was invited to a demonstration of a formidable new mechanism that supposedly was equipped with a 4,000-word vocabulary in two languages.

The phrase "The spirit is willing but the flesh is weak" was fed into the machine in one of the languages. And here's the translation that came out in the other: "The liquor is good but the meat has gone bad."

The manager of the classified ad department of an Arizona gazette was proud to receive this testimonial from a satisfied customer: "Dear Sir: Your ads sure bring results. My lost dog has been returned—plus seven pups."

"The beatnik," rejoices Burton Hillis, "is rapidly going the way of the American buffalo—to which he bears a strong resemblance."

The National Junior Chamber of Commerce is now 40 years old — Factographs. What's so junior about that?

Youthful guests at a jazz festival held on the lawn of the estate of Britain's Lord Montagu staged a king-sized riot requiring scores of policemen to break it up. Hardly a noble gesture of thanks.

Philadelphia cops arrested three youths for riding their steeds in a public park faster than the seven-miles-per-hour limit. Needed invention: a speedometer for horses.

Hal Smith's Homer Wins Second Tilt

Bob Friend Scores 17th Win In Opener; Sets Strikeout Mark

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Pittsburgh added momentum to its National League pennant drive Tuesday night with a double victory over the Philadelphia Phillies, taking a 3-2 decision after winning the opener of a twi-night double-header, 7-1.

Hal Smith's 11th home run of the season with one out in the eighth off loser Jim Owens (4-13) decided the nightcap after the Pirates had made it 2-2 in the seventh with a run on Dick Schofield's double and Bob Skinner's two-out single.

The victory went to Clem Labine (3-1), in relief of Harvey Haddix, who gave up both Philadelphia runs in the sixth on four hits and two errors. Labine pitched three innings of scoreless relief ball.

The Pirates' other run crossed in the third on two-out singles by Haddix, Bill Virdon and Skinner.

Friend Cops 17th

Bob Friend had an easy time in gaining his 17th victory against 11 defeats. He lost a shutout when rookie third baseman Jim Woods opened Philadelphia's eighth with a home run, his first in the majors.

Friend allowed seven hits in picking up his fourth win in five decisions against the Phils. The loss was Roberts' fourth straight to Pittsburgh.

A new major league club strikeout record was set in Philadelphia's fourth when Friend curved a third strike past Tony Taylor. It was the 990th strikeout for the Phillies and erased the old mark of 989 set by the Chicago Cubs in 1957. Later the Phillies total went to 994 as Friend whiffed four more Phillies.

Beats 1912 Record

Friend set a new Pittsburgh club strikeout record when he fanned the same Taylor in the eighth. It was his 177th of the year, wiping out the old standard of 176 set by Claude Hendricks in 1912 when he won 24 and lost nine for the Bucs. Friend boosted his 1960 record to 178 when he got Woods on strikes to end the game.

Caye Is Injured

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Halfback Eddie Caye, who turned in a stellar performance as an understudy for injury-riddled Roger Kochman in Penn State's football opener, was hurt himself in practice Tuesday.

Caye will be lost to the Nittany Lions for at least a week with a sprained ankle. Caye was injured when he tripped on a tackling dummy while running an off-tackle play in offensive drills.

Penn State has an open date this Saturday and Caye was expected to be ready for action the following week.

Softball Games Resume Today With Double Bill

Post's And Ritter's, Greenpoint, Moose Play At Penn Ave.

A plan to stage tripleheaders today and tomorrow to speed up play in the Tri-State Softball Tournament which was rained out Monday and Tuesday was scrapped last night, according to Earl M. Nonnenmann, director.

Instead, doubleheaders will be staged today, Thursday and Friday at Penn Avenue Field, semi-finals are listed for Monday and Tuesday and the championship game on Wednesday.

The tripleheader idea was dropped when a number of the teams informed Nonnenmann they would be unable to have their full strength due to players already having made arrangements to swap jobs on certain nights at local plants so they could participate in the tournament.

Today at 6:15 p. m., Post's of the Rec League and Ritter's A. C. of the Rocking Chair League will clash while in the nightcap affair at 7:30 Greenpoint Inn's Old Exports of the County League will oppose the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose of the Rocking Chair League.

Thursday, the Cumberland V.F.W. will meet the Sports Shoppe at 6:15 and Pratt's Sunoco Untouchables will oppose Snake Springs, Pa., at 7:30.

The Cumberland Redmen will face the Celanese A. A. at 6:15 and Wellersburg will do battle with the Bedford American Legion at 7:30 p. m., Friday.

Thompson Fails To Set Record

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP)—Mickey Thompson, El Monte, Calif., America's fastest auto driver, failed to set a new world record in two runs on the salt flats of western Utah Tuesday. He took his car back to nearby Wendover for adjustments.

He reached a disappointing 377.99 miles per hour on his first run through the measured mile.

On his second run mechanical difficulties caused him to cut his power and he reached an estimated speed of only about 368 m.p.h.

The 378 m.p.h. reached on his first run was far below the 394.1 m.p.h. set in 1947 by the late John Cobb of England meant he would have to exceed 410 m.p.h. on the second run in order to set a record.

Cards Win, 3-2

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Pinch-hitter Charley James hit a two-out broken bat single in the last of the ninth inning Tuesday night to drive in two runs and give the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The Cincinnati Reds dealt a near-fatal blow to Milwaukee's hopes of staying alive in the National League pennant race Tuesday night on Jay Hook's two-hit, 9-0 victory over the Braves.

Detroit Homers Sink Tribe, 9-1

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Detroit Tiger homers by Dick Gernert, Lou Berberet and Al Kaline eased the way to Frank Lary's seven-hit 9-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians Tuesday night.

The bases-empty homers by Gernert and Berberet in the second made Cleveland starter Jim Perry the Indians' all-time "gopher ball" champion. The Indians' right-hander has given up 34 homers this season.

Perry, seeking his 18th triumph, was knocked out of the box when Detroit exploded for six runs in the fifth inning. One of the big hits in that rally was a run-scoring triple by rookie Dick McAuliffe, starting his first game at shortstop for the Tigers.

McAuliffe, voted the Sally League's all-star shortstop at Knoxville this season, also hit two singles.

Lary, who recorded his 14th victory against 15 defeats, lost his shutout in the sixth when Ken Aspromonte doubled and Ty Cline singled.

Kaline hit his 15th homer of the season in the eighth off reliever Don Newcombe.

Robinson's Hit Defeats Bosox, 4-3

Orioles Overcome Three-Run Deficit; Bill Hoeft Victor

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Brooks Robinson tried to duck away from a pitch but instead blooped a single to short right field Tuesday night to drive in a run which gave the Baltimore Orioles a 4-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The victory moved the Orioles back into second place in the American League race, one-half game ahead of the idle White Sox, with whom they had been tied.

Robinson's fluke hit, coming off Mike Fornieles who had just relieved starter Tom Brewer, followed back-to-back singles with two outs by Gene Woodling and Jim Gentile. The hit scored Jim Busby, who had gone in to run for Woodling.

Overcome 3-0 Deficit

The Orioles, who kept alive their slim flag chances, had to overcome a 3-0 deficit to score their triumph. The winner was Billy Hoeft, third of four Baltimore pitchers, who had come in to retire the one batter he faced in the top of the eighth.

The Red Sox scored all their runs in the second inning off Skinny Brown. Russ Nixon hit his fifth homer of the year following a double by Vic Wertz. Then, a two-bagger by Frank Malzone, an infield single by Lu Clinton and a double play grounder by Don Buddin gave the Sox their third run.

Triandos Hits Homer

The Orioles scored in the second on a double by Ron Hansen, following an error by Don Buddin. Gus Triandos hit his 10th homer with the bases empty in the fifth to cut Boston's lead to 3-2. The Orioles tied the score in the seventh on a walk to Hansen, a single to right by Triandos which sent Hansen to third and an infield out by pinch-hitter Bob Boyd.

Mississippi Heads First Weekly Poll

Routed Houston In Opener, 42-0

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mississippi and Syracuse are off to an early head start in the race for the year's college football honors.

The first weekly poll of The Associated Press Tuesday showed the Mississippians rated the top team in the country by the thinnest of margins over the 1959 champion, Syracuse.

The Deep South powerhouse gained its quick advantage through a 42-0 rout of Houston in its opening game. Syracuse, idle last week, gets a chance to impress the experts in its opener with Boston University Saturday.

These ttwo teams, both generously endowed with the talent which carried them to successful campaigns last year, are the prime pre-season favorites for the national title.

A special tribunal, representing all sections of the country, gave Mississippi and Syracuse 22 first-place votes each but the Southerners scored more points on the basis of ten for a first place vote, nine for second and so forth. Forty-eight members comprise the AP panel.

The top 20 teams (with first place votes in parentheses):

Mississippi (22)	434
Syracuse (22)	401

WVU Frosh Open

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — The West Virginia University freshman football team, looking for a brighter season than their counterparts had a year ago, open the 1960 campaign Wednesday night against Fairmont.

Coach Ed Shockey, former Mountaineer varsity assistant who took over the freshman coaching reigns this fall, said his squad contains some potentially great talent.

Yankees Beat Senators, 2-1

Error By Battey Decides In 11th

NEW YORK (UPI) — Catcher Earl Battey's 11th-inning error with the bases full enabled the New York Yankees to beat the Washington Senators, 2-1, Tuesday night and move a step closer toward clinching the American League pennant.

The victory—fifth in a row for the Yankees—reduced their pennant-winning "magic number" to six and was particularly gratifying to Casey Stengel, who feared his team "might let up a little" after its four-game sweep of the Baltimore Orioles.

But Sengel's fears proved groundless as the Yankees put together a single, two walks and the error by Battey for their winning run off Don Lee, Washington's fourth pitcher.

Eli Grba, the Yankees' fourth pitcher, hurled the 11th inning and was credited with his fifth victory. The loss was Lee's sixth against eight wins.

Horses Involved In Funeral Debt

BOSTON (AP)—Two race horses currently running at Lincoln Downs were the subject of a restraining order issued for a funeral debt in Suffolk Superior Court Tuesday.

Judge Louis Goldberg's order listed the owner of the horses as Mrs. Flora Gordon of Brookline.

The order restrained Mrs. Gordon from selling or otherwise disposing of the horses pending settlement of a suit for $814 brought by a Brookline funeral chapel against her husband, Herman.

In the suit Gordon was accused of owing the chapel for his mother's funeral in February 1958. The chapel owners alleged Gordon refused to pay.

The suit alleges that although the horses are in the names of Mrs. Gordon, her husband is the real owner.

Texas - Maryland, Pitt - Michigan State Are Rated Even

Notre Dame Picked Over California

Mississippi, Ohio State, Syracuse Made Favorites

NEW YORK (UPI)—Michigan State and still-seething Pittsburgh Tuesday were rated even money for their nationally-televised clash this Saturday, but Mississippi, Notre Dame, and Ohio State were marked heavy favorites in other big games.

Pitt players claim they didn't get a fair shake on rulings in their 8-7 loss to UCLA last weekend and Michigan State, making its seasonal debut, could feel the Panthers' wrath.

Also rated even money, in the rundown of odds on this weekend's games, was the big clash between Oklahoma, always one of the nation's powerhouse clubs, and Northwestern, one of the top contenders in the Big Ten.

Ole Miss Favored

Mississippi a leading aspirant for No. 1 national honors, is listed a 17-point choice in a Saturday night game against Kentucky, a 23-13 loser to Georgia Tech last weekend. Syracuse, the defending national champion, also goes into action this week and is so heavily favored over Boston University that no odds are quoted.

Notre Dame is a 19-point favorite over California, a team upset last week by Tulane. The Irish got the nod despite some injury troubles and the fact they lack a seasoned quarterback.

Ohio States is a 13-point favorite in its debut against Southern Methodist, loser to Missouri last week.

Here are the odds on other big games:

East—Columbia 7 over Brown, Army 13 over Boston College, Cornell 13 over Colgate, Harvard 2 over Holy Cross.

South—Wake Forest and Clemson even, North Carolina 7 over North Carolina St., Auburn 3 over Tennessee, Mississippi State 6 over Houston, South Carolina 1 over Duke, Alabama 7 over Tulane, Georgia Tech 5 over Rice, Georgia 3 over Vanderbilt, Florida 12 over Florida State.

Midwest—Iowa State 8 over Detroit (Fri.), Illinois 12 over Indiana, Michigan 5 over Oregon, Purdue 5 over UCLA, Iowa 8 over Oregon St., Kansas 17 over Kansas St., Missouri 12 over Oklahoma St., Nebraska and Minnesota even, Stanford and Wisconsin even.

Terps-Texas Even

Southwest—Maryland and Texas even, Arkansas 14 over Tulsa, Baylor 7 over Colorado.

Far West—Washington St. 12 over Denver (Fri.), Southern California 5 over TCU.

Coast Loop May Expand

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Officials of the Pacific Coast League meet here Wednesday to discuss the future of the circuit, hard hit by the invasion of major league baseball to the West Coast.

Items expected to come up for discussion include possible purchase of the Seattle team by Boston of the American League and a similar purchase of Vancouver by the Milwaukee Braves of the National League.

A Honolulu group, seeking a franchise for the island city, also is expected. There has been some talk of expanding the league to 10 teams with Denver or Fresno mentioned as other possibilities.

PCL president Dewey Soriano will be in charge of the meetings. The sessions are expected to wind up by Thursday night.

Dykes Renamed Tribe Manager

Jimmy Signs Pact For 1961 Season

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jimmy Dykes was named Tuesday night to manage the Cleveland Indians for one more year. General Manager Frank Lane said "if things go as they should there is no reason why it shouldn't be longer."

Dykes came to the Indians Aug. 3 in the celebrated "swap" of managers. Joe Gordon, former Indians' pilot, took over Dykes' job with the Detroit Tigers as Dykes came here.

At that time the Indians were in fourth place and had lost 18 of their last 25 games. Under Dykes they won only 22 of 48. However, the Indians have been hit hard by injuries.

Forty Niners Trade Rodney Breedlove To Washington Redskins

MORAGA, Calif. (UPI)—Coach Red Hickey said Tuesday that the fans who thought the San Francisco Forty Ninters looked bad Sunday against the St. Louis Cardinals were correct.

After watching films of the 24-17 loss to the Cards, he glumly said "We were as bad as we thought . . . we made too many mental errors."

The Forty Niners traded rookie Rod Breedlove to Washington for an undisclosed future draft choice and had to cut two more men Tuesday to get down to the league limit of 38.

Jones Wins For Giants

Chicago Loses, 5-2, To San Francisco

CHICAGO (UPI)—Sam Jones limited the Chicago Cubs to five hits, all singles, Tuesday and the San Francisco Giants romped to a 5-2 victory in the finale of a three-game series.

A paid crowd of 1,013, smallest of the season, saw Jones go the distance for his season's 17th victory and fourth over the Cubs. Dick Ellsworth, rookie southpaw, was the loser.

Ellsworth gave up a run in the first inning on a double by Jose Pagan and a single by Willie Mays before the Giants splurged for three more in the fourth on singles by Pagan, Felipe Alou, Willie Kirkland and a two-run triple by Jim Davenport.

The Giants chased Ellsworth in the fifth when Don Blasingame scored their final run. Blasingame opened with a single, stole second and continued to third on Sammy Taylor's throwing error, scoring when Felipe Alou grounded into a force play.

Jones, a former Cub, walked three and struck out six in his 12th complete game. He lost his shutout in the second when Ron Santo and Bob Will got back-to-back singles with Santo later scoring on a wild pitch. The final Chicago run came in the ninth and was unearned.

Mayor Baker Asks For Law Enforcement

Cites Sanitary, Traffic Violations

PIEDMONT — "Some people only obey the traffic laws of the town when there is an officer around," according to Mayor Rodney Baker.

The assistance of the citizens of the community is asked for by the mayor. At a meeting of the town council Monday evening he made an appeal to all citizenry who see any vehicular law violation to take the license number and also the name of the driver, if known. He also urged that citizens show a willingness to appear against any offender.

He called attention to persons not stopping at stop-signs. Those brought before him and found guilty would be fined $10, he declared.

The mayor also called attention to people leaving their garbage containers on the street several days after the garbage has been picked up. He wants this practice discontinued.

He warned that residents must wrap garbage properly according to the town's ordinance. Some people are careless about this and dogs carry it all over the streets, he noted.

"I am not in favor of a "Clean-up" one week a year and the other 11 months and three weeks permitting general uncleanliness," he told the council.

Charles Spiker, chief of police, asked authority to require violators from out of state to post bond for their appearance. The council advised the Police Department to use its own discretion.

The police asked the town to pay a part of their telephone bill in their homes. They agreed to pay half the telephone bill of each officer if they can find how to keep such records.

Police Issue Bicycle Rules

BARTON — Local police officers have issued words of caution to children riding bicycles through the town, following four accidents in which children were injured.

The mayor and council joined the Police in urging children to observe the following rules:

Do not ride on sidewalks.

Do not ride at night without lights.

Do not try "trick riding".

Do not pull out on main roads without stopping.

Council Airs Traffic Hazard At Lonaconing

Citizens Offer Several Ideas

LONACONING—Church Street residents discussed their problem of narrow streets hindering garbage collection and snow removal at the mayor and council meeting Monday night. They offered three suggestions for solution.

Ed Hunter offered a turning place on his lot, donating the ground to be bulldozed off for cars to turn at the end of Church Street.

The eight men in the delegation suggested removing the curbing on the south side of Church Street from Hadley's home to the end of the hill to provide fourteen inches more space for cars and trucks to pass.

A third solution suggested is to have the garbage collection during the day hours before 5 p. m. when not as many cars are parked along this portion of the street.

Street Commissioner Benjamin H. Evans was authorized to investigate these possibilities to improve the conditions. Other improvements discussed by the Church Street group were holes in the road near Moyer's, a break in the town line near Lee's; sewerage openings needing to be raised and a street sign needed.

A fifty-star flag will be secured by the Town of Lonaconing to be flown on the flag pole at city hall. Guard railing is being completed on High Street, and guard rails will now be placed at Dutch Row and along Robbins Street creek wall.

A building permit was issued to James S. Getty who has purchased the John Hohing property on East Main Street. He plans an addition and patio.

An engineer firm has offered a sewerage plan to the Lonaconing town officials whenever the town enters into its sewerage project, according to a letter presented to the mayor and council.

How It Feels To Win 1/78th Of A Rolls-Royce

By GREGORY JENSEN

LONDON (UPI) — "Here," my wife said. "Win this for me."

"This," in the newspaper clipping she handed over, was roughly $14,000 worth of automobile — the one modestly billed as "The Greatest Motor Car in the World." It was the first — and only — prize in a newspaper safety contest.

"All right," I said. "I will."

And I did. Or rather, I almost did. Or rather, I may yet. I won 1-78th of it, anyhow. I think.

This note of confusion only hints at my desperate state of mind. My life, ever since that blasted contest came along, has been nothing but dark, haunted torture.

But, you might protest, it would great to win a gleaming new Rolls Royce. Fine. Wonderful, even.

Ha.

Oh, at first it was pleasant. My wife was almost hysterical with laughter about the notification that I had tied for first place in the contest — with 77 others. So was everyone in the office.

At home, all our conversations began: "When we get our Rolls. . ." We pictured ourselves driving our battle-scarred, nine-year-old car up to a Rolls Royce showroom and waving at it disdainfully with the imperious command, "Please dispose of this rubbish."

But there was our landlady. She was ecstatic about having a Rolls parked out front, and simply refused to understand that I hadn't won it yet. We began getting suspicious looks when it didn't appear.

My wife was worse: far worse. The ironic tone to "When we get our Rolls. . ." disappeared completely. So did every other topic of conversation. She spent three days getting my subconscious to work on a good safety hint, needed for the tie-breaking contest.

She would poke me awake in the middle of the night, say "Safety hint!" and go back to sleep. Her head shot at me from around corners and behind doors: "Safety hint," it would mutter darkly, and go away.

We fought bitterly over what we would do with the Rolls when we won it — and it was "when" not "if."

"Sell it!" My wife would wail. "But you can't sell it! It would be like selling the queen mother!"

I began haunting auto show rooms and studying auto ads. I became a Rolls-spotter on the streets: no other car existed, and every Rolls I spotted renewed the torture. My old car began falling apart. Turn signals, fan belt, wiring, door lock, all went haywire suddenly.

By now, there's only one thing in life for my wife and me — that Rolls. There's only one consoling thought while we sit waiting for the judges to quit dithering and hand it over:

Those other 77 first-place winners probably feel even worse than I do. If possible.

East German TV Organ Of Propaganda

BERLIN (UPI) — Even little children aren't spared political propaganda in Communist East Germany.

As all television networks, the East German TV also has a "Kiddies Bedtime" show every evening.

The characters are puppets. Recently one of them was leafing through some children's school books.

"Why I recognize that picture there," he chirped. "That's the house of the Young (Communist) Pioneers, and right next to it, why thats the Theater of German-Soviet Friendship."

Just now, all East German propaganda organs are involved in a mighty campaign to "bring in the harvest." Nightly, television audiences are subjected to pleas to wax enthusiastic about the competition among the "Maize Musketeers." Managers of state-owned restaurants are urged to offer fresh fruit for dessert, and farmers urged to deliver fresh fruit to the state-owned markets. "Don't let it rot in the orchards," cried one TV personality.

Although the whole of his pitch was a clear admission that fresh fruit is always scarce in East Germany, the TV personality launched without a blush into a blistering denunciation of American and West German governmental agricultural policies.

The word blimp dates back to World War I when England built a certain type of small, non-rigid airship called B-limp, which became blimp.

Tri-Towns Progress Is Cited

WESTERNPORT — "Progress made by the Tri-Towns is more than you realize," Dr. E. B. McCue, director of the extension department of West Virginia University, Morgantown, said here.

Dr. McCue was invited here during the Clean-Up and Paint-Up Week, sponsored by Tri-Towns Community Council.

He spoke to the Tri-Towns Rotary Club and was taken on a tour of the Tri-Towns. He met with the executive committee of the Community Council for a round table discussion at the Church of the Brethren.

Dinner was served at the Devon Club attended by the executive committee and mayors and councils of Westernport, Piedmont and Luke. Dr. McCue spoke to them on community problems.

Dr. McCue pointed out the expansion program of the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, the modern churches, modern school building and the up to date swimming pool. He was introduced by Mrs. Arthur Hartman, president of the Community Council. The invocation was given by Alton Fortney.

Street Lights, Curbs Aired

City officials and a representative of Potomac Edison Company met yesterday to discuss installation of new street lights on Baltimore Street and their effect on present traffic signals.

It was decided to try and arrange a conference with an engineer from Crouse-Hines Company of Baltimore, possibly Monday, about the necessary changes, according to Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

The new light poles will not be able to support traffic lights and some change will be necessary, Light and Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said.

Attending the light discussion were Fleming, Light, Mayor J. Edwin Keech, Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney, Lt. Raymond R. Johnston and James Wigger, utility man of Potomac Edison Company.

Fleming said officials also discussed the possibility of widening two intersections by cutting back curbs such as will be done at Baltimore and Mechanic Streets. He said City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum is checking the possibility of improving the intersection at Baltimore and Centre Street and the curve at the intersection of South George and Commerce Streets.

Germany today lives under a precarious division. Areas of East Prussia and the German territories east of the Oder-Neisse rivers are administered by Poland and the Soviet Union. The rest of Germany is divided into Eastern and Western zones. Divisions are not new to Germany, however. Modern Germany was not forged into a single nation until the 19th Century. The empire lasted until World War I, which brought defeat and the shrunken boundaries of the short-lived Weimar Republic.

California Firm Leases Anything From Postage Meters To Whole Plants

By JAMES DICKENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A woman needed a $250 postage meter for the correspondence of her small home business.

A group of businessmen needed a $2 million electronics plant for the manufacture of radar, guided missile, and satellite components.

They either didn't have the money to buy what they needed or were unwilling to tie up capital and credit for it. So they leased the equipment from the U.S. Leasing Corp. of San Francisco, a firm with a unique business concept it describes as the "credit card of industrial management."

It's simple, said the company's president, Richard J. Elkus. A company that must replace worn out equipment or needs more for expanding operations leases whatever it needs rather than buying it.

Buys From Manufacturer

U.S. Leasing buys the machinery from the manufacturer, then leases it to the businessman, who repays the original cost plus interest during the calculated life expectancy of the equipment.

At the end of the leasing period, he can continue to lease at a nominal rate — about 2½ per cent interest — or buy the equipment at around 10 to 20 per cent of its original value.

"This releases capital for other investment, or expansion, or research, rather, than having it tied up in equipment, the value of which rapidly decreases each year," Elkus said. "It's great for allowing new, struggling businesses to expand without putting themselves out of operation by having to meet large bank notes within 60 or 90 days."

The idea is catching on, and it's amazing the different things people need, Elkus said "We leased an old World War II P-38 for business and private use," he said. "We lease oil drilling machinery, adding machines, automobiles, transmitters to radio stations, plus complete factories like the electronics plant in San Carlos, Cal."

One California businessman recently got a complete, $200,000 asphalt plant, Elkus said.

Henry Schoenfeld, the founder of the company and now its executive vice president, sees industrial leasing as an evolving form of finance just as installment buying was 40 years ago.

"Businesses lease real estate, why not machinery?" he asks. "Paying wages to personnel is a form of leasing their services."

Schoenfeld founded the firm in 1952 quite by accident. Manager of a small food-processing company in California's San Joaquin Valley, he tried to rent a fork-lift truck, but instead was offered a three-year lease by an equipment dealer.

He told two executives of a large dried fruit and nut processing company about it. They needed a half-million dollars' worth of machinery but didn't want to spend that much money.

Schoenfeld and three others pooled $5,000, borrowed the rest from a bank and U.S. Leasing was in business.

Grosses 12 Million

During the first half of 1960, the firm grossed $12 million, an increase of 60 per cent over the similar period last year, according to Elkus.

One source of business is large corporations who lease electronic computers costing between a half and three-quarters of a million dollars.

"These rapidly become obsolete and leasing makes it easy for them to turn them in for new ones," Elkus said.

In drawing the credit card analogy, he said lease customers need good credit to participate and it allows them to operate without carrying a large amount.

Airman Pastes U.S. Emblems On Russ Plane

HONOLULU (UPI)—Somewhere in Russia today two Soviet TU104 jets are carrying emblems of the United States Air Force 1501st Maintenance Wing.

The credit for secretly plastering the decal insignias goes, according to reliable Hickam sources, to an anonymous Air Force master sergeant who did the job recently in New Delhi.

The incident occurred when the Air Force sent a Travis-based C133 on a round-the-world training flight.

When the giant cargo carrier landed at New Delhi, Indian air-force officials ordered it parked between two Russian TU104s despite objections by the security-minded American crew.

Guards, the sources said, were posted by both the Russians and the Americans to maintain security and make certain no Americans got close to the Russian jets, and vice versa.

Despite the guards, a C133 crew member, guardedly described as "an old Tennessean who came into the military as a "cavalryman" sneaked aboard the parked Russian jets and pasted the decal insignias of the 1501st Maintenance Squadron all over both planes.

"The decals," explained a Hickam source, "show a tiger with tools in paw working on a plane. They are about the size of playing cards and were secretly hidden in both planes where they will never be discovered until the Russians pull an engine check or overhaul.

"There certainly will be a surprised bunch of Moscow mechanics," one officer said, "when they check the nose wheel housing, remove pan covers and disassemble various parts of that plane."

About two million persons visit the Great Smoky National park annually.

Stocks Recover Slightly From Monday's Beating

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks recovered somewhat from Monday's meatgrinding but Tuesday's handout was mostly bone and a little fat.

Although the popular averages managed to add a few points, more stocks declined than advanced while virtually all the better gains were scored by electronics and several of the severely downtrodden.

Brokers reached for a number of explanations for the day's relative steadiness with most calling it a technical response to the previous day's debacle.

A few others took note of the scheduled meeting between President Eisenhower and his council of top economic advisors and speculated that perhaps additional Federal Reserve credit - easing moves are in the works.

Analysts are in virtual agreement that no concrete signs are visible to indicate the list has reached an important bottom. While they agree the averages are headed down, the question remains as to how far.

The most optimistic put the floor at about 580 in the Dow-Jones industrials while the more bearish see a hole as deep as 525.

Tuesday's volume declined a bit to 3,660,000 shares from 3,790,000 Monday.

Out of a total of 1,236 issues traded, 479 rose, 529 declined and 228 held unchanged. Only 4 scored new highs while 128 touched new lows.

Heading up the most active list was American Motors with 68,100 shares and a gain of ¼ point.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grain futures prices were irregular at the close of the Board of Trade Tuesday. Corn eased after mid-morning firmness.

At the final bell, wheat was off ¼ to up ⅜; corn off ¼ to up ⅛; oats up ⅛ to off ¼; rye off ⅛ to ¾; soybeans up ¼ to 1, and lard up 5 to 25 points.

Corn deliveries moved lower toward the close of trading with the September contract taking the greatest loss due to selling by elevator houses partly against purchases of December. The early buying was based on hopes of settlement in the strike against elevators.

Soybeans advanced from opening levels, fell back somewhat under selling led by an oil processor, and finished firm. Exporters were early buyers. Higher oil prices and an upward revision of the export total to date were also factors.

Oats prices held about steady throughout most of the session in a mixed commission house trade. Wheat also remained close to the steady mark. Some early selling was offset by good export possibilities.

Traders said Brazil and Cyprus were made offers on over four million bushels of wheat. They said additional overseas business in smaller quantities of wheat and soybeans was also pending.

Grains at outside markets were lower.

Commissioners Deny 'Politics' Enters Survey

Remarks By Rowan Disputed By Others

Two members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners took exception yesterday to the remarks of board president John J. Rowan, who charged that a job classification survey being made by the State Employment Security Board is "strictly political."

Both Commissioners John T. Mason and William A. Wilson declared emphatically after yesterday's board meeting that Robert B. Kimble, director of the state agency, was not concerned with the survey and had no "political designs" in connection with the survey, as was stated by Mr. Rowan.

Notices were posted in each department last week instructing employes to cooperate with the job classification survey being undertaken for the county board.

Yesterday, Mr. Rowan charged the survey was "political" in nature. He said Mr. Kimble had telephoned Commissioner Wilson last week concerning the survey, and he added that Mr. Kimble had "political designs" in the survey.

Worked With Kenney

Mr. Mason said Mr. Kimble didn't have anything to do with the survey. "We (Mason and Wilson) worked with Francis Kenney, Cumberland manager of the ESB, to get started on the deal," he said.

Mr. Mason said the survey was started and the ESB team had nearly completed job classifications in Allegany County Court House before Commissioner Rowan objected to the move.

The team immediately stopped its survey, Mr. Mason said, and declined to become involved in a controversy. "We got in touch with Kimble, who didn't even know the survey was being conducted," Mr. Mason stated. "Kimble's call to Commissioner Wilson last week was in regard to our request that he have the survey completed for us."

Commissioner Mason went on to state that "there was nothing political in the call. It was made in answer to our request. In my opinion if anything is political in this it was made political by Mr. Rowan."

Commissioner Wilson concurred with Mason's statements. He said that the survey already had started before Mr. Rowan made an issue of it.

Kimble "Entirely Innocent"

Mr. Wilson said, "Commissioner Mason and I talked to Kimble and urged him to have the survey completed. There was no controversy and I believe Kimble is being accused of something of which he is entirely innocent."

Both commissioners emphasized that the survey team, which has completed its work in the Court House and Trial Magistrates Court and is now working in the county roads department, will report its findings to the county board, which can accept all or part of it, or can junk the entire report.

The commissioners added they felt the survey team was working at the request of Mr. Kimble and that it was doing so under protest as it did not want to become involved in a controversy.

At yesterday's board meeting Mr. Rowan said the workers in the roads department, which is under his jurisdiction, do not want the survey and are disturbed about the project. He stated that "a number of personnel officials have said such job classifications are worse than you'd expect." At that time Commissioner Mason said, "Check the minutes of the meetings and you'll see you did not vote against the plan."

Mr. Mason went on to say the survey is needed to clear up some of the inequities in jobs within various departments and to set up certain defined job classifications. He pointed out the survey is "not costing the county one cent," while some counties have paid more than $10,000 for such surveys.

Decide On Merits

Last night Commissioner Mason reiterated his statements backing the plan, adding "It is up to us to decide on its merits. No one will lose his job or have a cut in pay. It is for future classifications.

"In fact," the commissioner continued, "the notices asking cooperation of the employes were posted because Commissioner Rowan threatened to fire anyone in the roads department who aided the survey team."

Mason then said Commissioner Rowan is wrong in stating his department employes do not want the survey. "I've already received a number of phone calls from roads department workers who asked that the survey be made."

Typical Scene At Eye Clinic

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Lions Clubs of Cumberland and communities in Allegany and Garrett counties feel they have one of the finest eye conservation programs in the nation.

The continued success of the program is due to the untiring work by local and area professional men and nurses of county health departments, generosity of the public and enthusiasm by the service club members.

Their warm human kindness and cooperation adds up to one of the best possible sight saving programs for pre-school and school age youngsters of the Tri-State area whose parents are unable to meet the bills.

James H. Smith of Frostburg, past deputy district governor of Region One of the Lions in Western Maryland, said that during the past year over $11,000 was spent on the project by the clubs.

In the past year, according to Glenn K. Davis, chairman of the Cumberland Lions program, over $7,000 was expended to assure better vision for the youngsters.

How Money Is Spent

Frostburg Lions spent $663 in their program; Oakland, $460; Tri-Towns, $425; Potomac Valley (Cresaptown area) $340; Kitzmiller, $56 and LaVale, $40. It was noted by Mr. Smith that many of the youngsters in the LaVale area are cared for by the local club which is often called upon for assistance by the communities.

Last year 880 cases were handled in the overall program, 444 pairs of glasses were furnished, and there were 351 other cases of treatment, said Mr. Smith.

From July 1, 1959 to July 1 this year, 462 new eye care cases were brought to the attention of the Allegany County Health Department, and statistics show that 402 patients came back for visits and 324 pairs of glasses were provided by the local Lions.

Maintenance and repairs such as resurfacing glasses were provided during the period when surgery was performed on 11 youngsters who were afflicted with strabismus, or crossed eyes. A local physician performed the surgical work.

$3,000 For Equipment

In past years the Lions here have spent about $3,000 for clinic equipment at the County Health Department. The latest piece of equipment is an improved hand magnet which is being used for the removal of inter-ocular magnetic foreign bodies.

To date the magnet has been used in treating at leas. four persons, including two workmen who had brittle steel fragments removed from the area of the eyeball.

The clinic equipment includes an examination chair; refractometer for fitting glasses; and a tonometer, which is used for reading the surface of the corneal curves.

Mr. Davis, who is assisted on the eye conservation program committee by Charles M. See, Arthur F. Friedland and Captain Fred Overton, said the sight saving project has been sponsored by the Lions since the club was formed about 30 years ago.

In the earlier years of the program, the Lions would buy each year a dozen or so pairs of glasses for children. The program grew steadily and has branched out into the communities.

Basis Of Support

Where does the money for the program come from?

In Cumberland since 1953 thousands of local and area residents annually have been flocking to the Municipal Airport in Wiley Ford to witness the thrilling Sports Car Races which attract top drivers of the nation.

The proceeds of the races are set aside for the eye conservation

City Operates Two Months On Surplus Fund

Spending Is Two Points Under Par

The $239,000 surplus used to start off the 1960-61 fiscal year of the City of Cumberland was just a bit more than was spent for city operations during July and August.

This was shown in a report on the condition of the levy on August 31, prepared by City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson for the guidance of department heads.

The report shows that total collections during the first two months were $317,067.49, or 16.8 per cent of the $1,899,930 levy.

The $239,000 surplus was the top item in the collections, and the only other sizeable income source was $30,972.56 of the city's share of state gas and auto tax collections.

During the two months, the city also collected $5,382.24 of the $1,247,000 tax levy which will be coming in in earnest early next week.

During July and August, the various city departments spent $237,100.87, or 14.27 per cent of the $1,661,610 set aside for city operations.

This is about two points under par for August 31. All departments appeared to be operating within their budgets and the below-par spending results chiefly from the fact that special funds set up for construction were largely untapped.

LaVale Civic Unit To Assist Park Project

Action Is Planned On Sewage Problem

The LaVale Civic Improvement Association at a meeting Monday night discussed ways and means by which the civic unit can assist in developing recreational facilities at the LaVale Lions Club park project.

Many improvements are planned at the park including the eventual construction of a swimming pool. Albert Tosh led the discussion on recreation.

Another matter discussed was a general housing shortage in the Cumberland area. A representative of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory called attention to the fact that a technical man whom ABL wished to hire declined to accept employment here because he could not find a suitable home.

It was emphasized that there is more new construction in District 29 than in any other election district of Allegany County.

Other action at the meeting held at the LaVale Fire Hall included plans to draft a letter to the Allegany County Commissioners requesting the commissioners to intercede in efforts to get the LaVale Sanitary Commission to assume responsibility for sewage and drainage in LaVale as well as for the distribution of water.

It was agreed at the meeting by the directors of the association, representatives of the LaVale Lions Club and other interested residents of LaVale that sewage is the community's biggest problem.

In the course of the discussion of sewage problems, it was pointed out that some springs and wells on Henry Drive, which runs off Cash Valley Road, have become polluted recently.

Mrs. David Whitworth is president of the association and Mrs. Richard Johnson is secretary. The Lions Club was represented by Carl Belt, president; Harry Larrick and William McKee. Among the interested citizens on hand were Dr. W. Robert Lowstuter, Mr. and Mrs. Waverly Rice, William C. Barger and Henry Lowery.

Man Posts Bond In Assault

William Conner, 39, of Corriganville, yesterday posted $500 bond in Trial Magistrate Court to await a hearing on charges which arose from a shooting incident September 6 in Mt. Savage.

Conner was released from Memorial Hospital yesterday where he was admitted with a gun wound in his left leg on September 6.

Authorities said Conner was shot with a .32 caliber pistol after he allegedly assaulted his estranged wife, Grace Conner, 42, at her home in Mt. Savage.

Police said the pistol was discharged by Mrs. Frances E. Shipley who was residing with Mrs. Conner, who is ill.

Conner, who faces charges of assaulting his wife and being drunk and disorderly, waived preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon before Magistrate Paul W. Barnett.

Magistrate Barnett said Conner will be given a hearing at a later date on the two charges.

No Soil Bank Signups Set This Year

There will be no signing this fall for additional land or contracts under the Soil Bank Conservation Reserve, Bradye H. Dolly, Allegany County ASC chairman, announced yesterday in response to inquiries from farmers regarding the status of the program.

Mr. Dolly also said that program contracts which expire in 1960 or later are no longer eligible to be extended for an additional period of years.

"Under the Soil Bank Act enacted in May of 1956," he explained, "the Secretary of Agriculture was authorized to enter into conservation reserve contracts with producers during the five-year period from 1956 to 1960.

"The sign-up under the 1960 program was held last fall, so that farmers would know in advance of the cropping season whether their land would be accepted into the conservation reserve. Since the authorization to enter into new contracts has not been extended beyond 1960, there will be no signing period this fall."

There are 1,484 conservation reserve contracts in effect this year in Maryland, involving a total acreage of 84,753 acres, Mr. Dolly said. Contract periods range from three to 10 years, and annual rental payments for 1960 amount to approximately $1,437,538.

Nationally, he added, there are more than 300,000 contracts covering approximately 28.6 million acres with an average rental payment of $11.85 per acre. Rental payments, Mr. Dolly said, will amount to about $338,000,000 for 1960 under the conservation reserve plan.

Foley Slaps Voting Record Of Del. Mathias

FREDERICK (AP)—Rep. John R. Foley, D-Md., said Tuesday night Del. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Frederick, his opponent in the November congressional election, failed to vote 530 times in the last session of the Maryland Legislature.

Foley made the statement in a two-hour limited forum for the two rivals for Maryland's Sixth Congressional District seat.

It was the severest criticism either candidate directed at his opponent during the lengthy talkfest witnessed by about 250 persons packing the Frederick County Circuit Courtroom.

Mathias, a Frederick attorney, made no immediate comment on Foley's statistics or on his statement that Mathias had "the worst Republican record in Annapolis."

The two candidates are scheduled to debate again next week in Hagerstown. Unlike Tuesday night's closely regulated session, that one will provide each with an opportunity for rebuttal.

Each candidate was restricted to five minutes on each of three subjects — education, national defense, and the farm problem—with a five-minute summary period.

The session was then thrown open to questions from the audience, again with five minutes allotted each subject and five more for general questions.

Foley's criticism of Mathias came during the general statement period in the program.

City Firemen Begin Service Tests Today

All Pumpers To Be Put Through Paces

Service tests of pumpers used by the Cumberland Fire Department will begin today, according to Fire Chief Virgil Parker.

The tests will be conducted at the Constitution Park pool under the direction of Assistant Fire Chiefs Robert C. Long and Vincent Wegman and Master Mechanic Harold McDonald and are scheduled to be completed tomorrow.

Chief Parker said the service tests are made twice a year to make sure that each pumper is in satisfactory operating condition and capable of working at the rated capacity.

Each pumper, he said, will be tested under working conditions set up by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Draft Test Set

The first test will be on drafting water from the pool. Suction hoses will be dropped into the pool and the pumper will be tested to determine the time needed to draw up a certain volume of water and to boost water pressure to the desired point.

Chief Parker said the first purpose of the tests is to determine if the pumper is able to meet specifications set up for first line equipment.

The second purpose is to allow the department's master mechanic to check for leaks and other conditions which do not show up when the pumper is idling or operating at low speeds.

The tests, Chief Parker said, is a preliminary to preparing all of the motorized equipment for winter conditions.

To Test Nozzles

First line equipment to be tested under service conditions includes the 1,250-gallon LaFrance pumper at Central Fire Department, the 750-gallon Ahrens-Fox pumper at South End Fire Station, the 750-gallon Mack pumper at West Side Fire Station and the 550-gallon Ahrens-Fox pumper at East Side Fire Station.

Second line pumpers stationed at Central, South End and West Side fire stations will also be tested, as will be the deck gun used during major fires.

All heavy duty nozzles owned by the department will be used during the tests.

Navy Lists Annual NROTC Program Exams

Local Navy recruiters yesterday called attention to the 15th annual national competitive examination for Regular Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps, which will be given to high school seniors and graduates on December 10.

Application forms for these examinations are now available at Navy recruiting stations and high schools and must be mailed by November 18.

Designed to supplement the officer output of the Naval Academy, the NROTC program makes it possible for a young man to earn a regular commission while studying at the civilian college of his choice which has an NROTC Unit. All tuition, fees and books are furnished by the Navy, and the student receives an annual retainer of $600 for four years. During the summers the student goes on training cruises as a midshipman.

After completing the usual four year college course, he is commissioned in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps and goes on active duty as a prospective career officer. Those who apply and qualify, may get immediate assignment to flight training.

High School seniors and graduates who have reached the 17th birthday and have not reached the 21st on July 1, 1961, may apply for the NROTC aptitude test. Those who make a qualifying score will be given a rigid physical exam early in 1961. From the number of qualified young men remaining in competition, at least 1,600 will be selected to begin their naval careers next September.

The NROTC college training program is also open to enlisted men on active duty with the Navy and Marines. A separate quota is established for applicants within these services.
